Hi, all.

Back in the 70's I owned and loaned a couple of LF bootlegs, which I never got back!. I was reminiscing the other night, and decided to google the title "Beak Positive" in the hope of locating a hard copy of this fab LP. (the opener was a ROCKIN' version of "Skin It Back".

I found a legit site which hosts open source "artist approved" live recordings and I am now re-living my wayward youth to the tune of "Eldorado Slim", recorded at the Santa Monica Civic Centre in 1973.

This site has all you could eat, feat-wise.

Sorry if it's old news, it's the beer talkin'....

Hope this isn't TOO much of a case of egregious name dropping, but I had the pleasure of playing a bunch of Little Feat tunes for 2 nights on stage with Paul Barrere last year. I'm a piano player, so you can guess my level of glee being up there doing Dixie Chicken and Willin' (among others) with Paul.

Will definitely scope that site out!!

Little Feat's "Sailin' Shoes" album has been one of my all-time favorites since it came out. I credit the song "Willin'" with getting me through some difficult times. Great band.

Hi Sarah.
Yep, Sailin' Shoes was the one that did it for me too.
I still play it to death.
I'm taking it with me to my grave!
