I picked it up at a local Mac store yesterday. I hope to have it installed

On first appearances, Apple has addressed almost all of the areas that I had problems with in Logic 7.

before I decide.

Yes Gene! Please let us know....The multi-take and quickswipe-comping features look like they might work similar enough to Paris' free-form mode that I might could consider it. And to get a new OSX version of Waveburner now for 499.00 would almost justify the purchase on that basis alone.

That's great, looking forward to your comments, Gene!

Mine is supposed to ship today and be here next week.

Cheers,
-Jamie

i bought it yesterday but had to cancel (it's already been shipped).
it seems that the educational version is the only one not eligible for the update price. they really should post that on their site since even pre apple emagic versions are.

I posted that the other day. Also academic versions of software are not transferable, such is the case with Adobe.
