I was futs forwarded an e-mail that was sent to a mutual friend by Steven's wife and forwarded to me, as follows:

"Steven died in his sleep early this morning after a couple of truly peaceful days. He woke once, Thursday evening, and found himself surrounded by friends and family. He talked sleepily with all of us, understood he was deeply loved, and told us he had been flying in a wonderful and amazing place without pain. He woke again early Friday morning and was as clear, strong, and aware as he had been in his healthiest days. He told me he had been in "a place beautiful beyond my life," told me he wanted to die and go back there, and fell into a final sleep.

The world is a poorer place without him. Please carry him in your thoughts, hearts, and prayers.

Thank you all for being there for him and for me."

Wow. Didn't realize he had been ill, but then we haven't heard from him around here for a long time.

Whatever your beef with ID, SSC was an interesting cat, to say the least.

Condolences to his family.

Dedric,

I didn't know him or his family personally. This info was forwarded to me by a friend of his whom I met here on this NG, but who no longer posts here. From other folks I've met who knew him, I have been told that his name was Steven Marshall (as in Marshall Time Modulator-ring a bell?) and that the name Stephen St. Croix was a pen name..

Very sad. When I started to get interested in audio engineering about 20 years ago, I bought a MIX magazine and his column was one of the first things I read. I had no idea what he was talking about but I figured I would eventually.

Many years later it really knocked me out when, after I bought PARIS, I found out it was his company that designed it.

Small world.

Talking to him on the NG and in the chats was always very interesting and insightful.

I will remember him fondly.

I have thoroughly enjoyed most of his Mix columns in recent years and had totally forgotten about his involvement with Paris. He has been through so much with his debilitating motorcycle accident after recovering from cancer or some other disease. He certainly left his mark in this world and will be missed.

Wow. I heard he'd had some issues, but didn't realise he was in that bad a place.

Sounds like he was ready to go in the end, which is nice, though sad. At least he left on the right foot.

The world is certainly a lesser place.

Cheers,
Kim.

I've known him for years.

He is the only reason I bought Paris. No one could buy that guy's opinions. He said what he thought and lived as he spoke.

Proud, rude, uncorruptible, out of control in a controlled way, and brilliant as a quasar.

There is no one to replace him.

Wow, this is unbelievable. Does anyone know what he suffered from? I remember when I developed my dystonia, which affected my embouchure, he wrote me a really thoughtful email, referring to an injury to his guitar playing hand(s) and how he worked through it. He was very supportive and insightful in his words which gave me much needed strength at a time when I was really grieving. I'm really saddened by this. I didn't know you, but will miss you SSC.

DJ,

I appreciate you passing this information on.

I also recall reading his columns in Mix and thinking what wonderful ideas he had -wrapped in a nifty and engaging writing style. Whenever I picked up Mix, I always checked out his stuff first. When I learned that he was one of the Paris designers, it lent a very cool vibe to the product. Its weird, but there has always been something "in" or "behind" Paris that had the same tenor and tone of his columns. I'm saddened at his leaving this place and time, but it seems that he's found a ride better than the best Harley he's ever driven.

RIP SSC.

Sorry to hear that. I hung out with him and Jeff Baxter at the last Paris NAMM show. Stephen was showing Jeff and I his scars from his motor cycle accident and when he was shot up while working with the FBI. He said, that was what delayed him from writing the Paris GUI on time for Paris 3.0. Jeff showed me his Orange County Sheriffs badge. It was interesting hearing about their law enforcement adventures. Stephen and I talked about aviation, He was a pilot in the Swedish military and flew the SAAB fighter, and he said he checked out on the F 16. I was telling him that my guitar player from high school was an F-16 jock at Selfridge Air base. He's the the guy that hires pilots over there.

Stephen was an interesting guy, we always hit it off well. Hope this is some how misinformation, but if it's not, fair well and RIP SSC.

I always enjoyed his antics. He didn't know me from Adam, other than me being "that artguy on the newsgroup" but we did correspond a bit.

I will certainly miss him.

Sad to hear. As I understood up against the Paris-years, he was an extraordinary strong person with healthproblems while living strongly. So maybe it's now more understandable for us Paris fellows why Paris too had to leave for the graveyard without dying. It's living strongly when we're taking some care of the "healthproblems".

Yeah...sad for us on this side. Read lots of his mix stuff and bought Paris after finding out he was involved.
But is it not amazing Steve brought us news from the other side? An extraordinary report from an exceptional human being.

This is quite sad. I'm not sure how much of what SSC said SSC did was actually done by SSC, and I'm not even sure if SSC was always clear on that, but if he did 15% of it he lived larger than most. My favorite SSC interaction by far was at the 1999 or 2000 NAMM show where he blatantly, shamelessly, tauntingly, and very nearly successfully tried to hijack my date. Right in front of me. She resisted until she heard about the drive up highway 101 in the Italian sports car, at which point she started to waver. We're still friends and I remind her of that quite often. I knew he had been sick but hadn't emailed him in a few years. He also gave me advice as a writer that was extremely useful--don't keep copies of everything you write, because most of it isn't that good and if you need to you can always find a copy of it later. It will just clutter up your house.

Sad that he is now where we all some day shall be,

SSC was always very interesting to listen to and I really enjoyed his Mix article immensely. What an amazing life really. I think Paris is more important than homeland security though and wish he could have recruited Skunk Baxter over to Paris, It would have been a natural.

Was it just me or did you all perceive that SSC had a huge spiritual energy. He just seemed very connected somehow. Maybe it was having cash that helped. hehe. I'm sure Edmund and others are mourning the loss of a very close and dear friend. I'm reminded of Mr. Eddie Kramer of Hendrix fame who I met and recalled that he was still mourning the loss 30 years later. Life is TOO real.

I recall SSC saying he worked on a famous movie soundtrack (probably many), so does anyone recall what music he was involved in regarding mixing and such? Was he into cowbell? :-) I would be interested. It's a shame that I didn't know while he was here.

Once rick went over to the other side and all he brought back was some job ads to pick tomatoes at some guys field in Topeka. But that's rick!

I'm often trying to digest Paris and there are probably less than a handful of people on the planet that really know the totality of Paris and SSC was one of those. What a system !

Palisades Park.....by Freddy Cannon. I remember it well. Cool calliope instrumental break with the screamingrollercoasterpeople.

That song rocked and had a very interesting chord structure. I spent the summer of.....what???.....1961 or 62' ? That song played on the radio about every 15 minutes and I loved it.....still do.

The sadest thing when someone passes away is for his/her beloved ones that stay behind especially for kids...
These people need strength to carry on.
My wholehearted sympathy to his beloved ones and I hope he is resting the way he described it !!!!

SSC was a real visionary-Paris is still breathing and still sounds better than any DAW out there-The Graphics are still a beautiful thing and it still has that timeless look

His legacy lives throught he music that is made on Paris and all the other projects he has been involved in over his lifetime

Peace, jason

God Bless SSC and his Family.

Lo siento mucho...

Hello, my Parisian brothers and sisters,

I only met SSC once in person, but in some weird way it felt like twin sons of different mothers, with him being the one on steroids. We hit it off really well. He came over to my studio along with Edmund Pirali and a bunch of the EMU guys, and we all had a great hang.

I talked to him on the phone from time to time, and I always enjoyed it. I just found out about his death a day or so ago, and I felt the need to come here and post my condolences. He was a one-of-a-kind, a guy that happened to the world around him, instead of it happening to him. The world got a bit smaller when he passed, and in the case of SSC, that's a fact, not just a nice sentiment.

I feel for his family, and for Edmund Pirali as well. I'm sure they are grieving. God bless them.

Best Regards,
Brian Tankersley

Yes! It would be great if you would drop by once in a while. We miss reading your posts.

I think many people here wished they would have gotten more time to talk to SSC.

James

P.S. This NG isn't just about Paris anymore;)
