I have two versions of this application... one's called "pafconvert" and the other's called "pafwavconvert". Does anyone know which of these works on Win XP?

Thanks in advance.

Dunno - haven't tried loading either on the XP box yet.

True. Unless it causes a rip in the space-time continuum, or something.

I have both versions of PafWavConverter. Within each zip file the exe files show PafWavConvert.exe on both versions. However the XP exe program is 1492KB while the 98 version exe is only 268KB. Hope this helps.

I have been using PAFWAVCONVERT in XP. I grabbed it a few weeks ago from Doug Wellington's Paris site. Works fine for me, especially combining L+R pafs into a stereo wav.
