Any good books on this anyone recommends? I have seen three I am considering: Total Recording (Dave Moulton), Mastering Audio (Bob Katz), and Mixing and Mastering (Bill Gibson). Your comments appreciated.

thanks,

Edna

Read "Mastering Audio" (Bob Katz) about 8 months ago. Loved it... it goes from basic to hi tech in a way that you can easily skip what you don't want or need. Learned lots.

Thanks Chris. I have read some of the articles at his site, a bit technical but I did learn some things :) Dave Moulton also has a site with some good articles, more practical oriented - I ordered his new book yesterday, Total Recording.
