One of 3 Neve's like it on the planet (or so I'm told), it's basically two 8000-series boards fitted together:

Live room attached to this particular control room...

Wow! I'll the monitors in the live room probably cost more than my whole set up.

Speaking of the live room, looks very "live"

I know... makes his SSL room (<http://www.sonicranch.com/sta1controlroom.html>) look like small-change, huh?

Although the SSL room is a really nice-sounding room, I must say that the Neve room seems to be much better. I say "seems to be" because I've never done a mix in there - only heard playback on a few songs right after he finished it - whereas I've done literally dozens upon dozens of sessions in the SSL room (and before that when it had a Trident console in there); but first impressions of the Neve room is that sound-wise it kicks major butt.

OOPS! Shouldn't have put the parenthesis around the URL.
Here's the proper link to the SSL room:

<http://www.sonicranch.com/sta1controlroom.html>
