ffy started this in , if

this feeble mind may recall, back in Jan 98
( Chuck please correct me if I'm wrong )
During that time , something amazing was going on.

ENSONIQ made something that really sounded Different, and to all of us - once we heard it , we were hooked. I did my first session in Nov 97 with Paris and it Spanked in a major way everything else out there. Everything.

Since that time , all of you used your own ears to come to this conclusion. This brotherhood was founded on the sonic excellence of PARIS. There are really so many talented and helpful people here its astounding. This newsgroup has a totally different vibe than any other audio related group.

In the Spirit of finding incredible sounding gear for the price, I've found something that I believe fits the bill.

SE Microphones.

SE mics is an American Company * Story to post later *

Many of you may recall when I found the Studio Projects C1 at Alan Hyatt's Joe Meek Booth.

I found it by accident , My 9:30 namm appointment was late , as I waited in Hall E ( Cheap seats ) I went over to say Hi To Alan Hyatt ( Owner Joe Meek ) I asked him whats new yadda yadda , ist? How would you feel? I'll bet it would start a bunch of shit, wouldn't it? So why do you think it's OK to post what you did? I, and I am sure other people here think you should stop!

It's not funny now is it? Calling people names and or stereotyping people here is not cool!

Lets get back to audio and Paris!

like it was three weeks ago.

2. I just discovered that the Three Stooges are big here on Phoenix television.

We don't get the Three Stooges in Durango and I had forgotten how relevant they are to my world. Back when I was living in Austin, when I had a dilemma, I could always tune in the Stooges and eventually Curly would show me the way.

I didn't realize how much I'd missed that.

;oPHi All

I'm posting this for a friend....

I am working with Ghost and it needs to install Microsoft .net framework files on the system and am concerned about these files on a DAW.

Has anybody had experience installing the .net framework files on a DAW?

XpPro SP1, 2.4 GHz, 1GB ram.

Installing Ghost 9.0, and it installs these files.

Please email Mike Kay with your replies @ sales@
