Did anyone watch the Grammy show last night?(evidently the ratings were not so good) The opening "Police" segment was great...they still ROCK .. Most of the other times the audio peaks went into nasty distortion,especially on the lead vocal mic.....poor showing for "audio professionals". I voted for the Dixie Chicks,and was glad they were winners.Their "Not Making Nice" protest song was really great when it first came out...now the "sting" is gone from it.

We heard a _ton_ of distortion. I just couldn't believe it was a tech glitch at their end, so I kept checking my system at home. Was there any pattern to it?

Loved most of the female singers, but with all the talent there, I sure wished they hadn't given so much time to Timberlake...
