it's a shame there is no simple way to convert all that electronic gizmo stuff into something useful like a vacuum...when the time comes.

Yeah that's sad. Well, Apple will have a fix in a week or two. I wonder if it had any thing to do with the MacBook Air??? The FireFox guy was saying that Safari was unsafe in an article recently.

With the email exploit a while back that everybody was talking about, you had to open the email, click on a part of the email to download software, then you had to click on that piece of software to have your system compromised. Who would do this? Anyways, Apple fixed it.
