I mixed a project, thought I was done, moved it into a folder called "done".

Artist listened, would like to hear the one guitar brought out some more, so I went back in and opened the project up.

All the files and overviews show up, audio bin doesn't show any orphans. I hit "play", and while the thing runs, and the now line moves, I'm getting no meter action and no audio. Already checked the patch bay. Tried resetting file path, tried resetting record path to new folder.

Any ideas?

Check the null on your faders.

Do a save as, and see if the save as plays if you put the new file in the original folder.

Reboot.

It might be a good idea to also check your patchbay settings and also perhaps your EDS card assignments on the global mixer. Ehh - I'm not on a mac tho'.

rock on,

Oh and on occasion I've had to drop the sub master fader to -90 then back to unity before I'll hear anything

I tried several of your suggestions, and after saving as "acousticx2" instead of using the original ppj, making sure my recording path matched, and closing/restarting Paris. I now have little green blinky lights on screen and noise coming out of those speaker thingies.

Thanks for the help, guys. That's why I love this joint.

"maybe if I turned the Mac on as well.." unfortunately that doesn't always work either.

;o)...i'm still trying to figure out why/how half the OS disappeared the other day...

Rick,

Did you piss off a Voodoo Priestess at some point? I think you may be cursed. ;>) Seriously, in the nearly 20 years I've been using Macs, I haven't had even a fraction of the troubles you've had with that one machine. If I could afford to do so, I'd send you out one of my (perfectly normal working) Macs, and let you use it for a while. If my hypothesis is correct, it should crash right after you turn it on. ;>)

What does loosing half the OS even mean??? Really, I'm curious as to how that could happen. What were the symptoms, errors, etc.?

oh hell tony the original put me out of business mac is dead this is the new core duo that replaced it. until this latest event it's actually been pretty decent. i intentionally bought a refurb figuring that it should work so i don't have a clue as to what' happened. i've read that there has been an increase in the number of logic board failures and if it loses it's mind again i'm going to take it in for testing.

Ok. I though this was the original "Mac from hell" G4. Now you have a new Mac and it's crapping out too? My Voodoo curse theory is starting to hold

You want me to loan you my shotgun so you can put that Mac out of it's misery???........or you could just send it to someone you don't like......(*!!! now I'm gonna have to beware of packages with Michigan postmarks)

this is the new mac and has been doing quite well for the most part. it's definitely better with logic than dp but i'm sure apple has intentionally done something in that arena to get people to switch. okay then, i'll cancel the case of microbrew beers i was going to send...such a shame...sigh.
