

---

Subject: Paris on You Tube

Posted by John Houston on Tue, 08 Sep 2009 04:15:12 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

One of my clients just finished this and put it on YOU TUBE. You get to see a brief glimps of my Studio. Go to jessenashvillejames . One word, Jesse Nashville James, but no spaces. I'd love to hear ideas on this YOU TUBE mix, please let me know. Oh, all the instruments were played by me, minus the acoustic gtr. Real drums, bass, 12 string electric through Leslie, slide on feedback gtr, FAKE strings, (oh well no budget).Oh, and my brother doing the Chris Cornellish screaming in the background. Any thoughts on eq or compression would be gladly accepted! John Houston

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ETBmP4KiiDY>

---

---

Subject: Re: Paris on You Tube

Posted by John Houston on Tue, 08 Sep 2009 04:34:45 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Just listened on my son's lap top, yuck! But it sounded great when I plugged in my wife's IPOD phones.Thanx, John Houston

---

---

Subject: Re: Paris on You Tube

Posted by Wayne on Tue, 08 Sep 2009 17:38:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Outstanding video. Very dark but intriguing vibe going on here. Scary yet enlightening. Clips are well selected and placed. Splicing the indoor studio clips gets the artist recognition. The outside TV clips sets the spooky. And I like the overall blueish filter. Pale blood suckers. Even Jesse's guitar fits. You got a winner. Best video I've seen this year.

Cool song. Top notch performance and producing. It breathes. Not too many words. Less is more. It pulls me in. Great arrangement. Inspires me to write outside the box.

wayne

---