
Subject: AAPL

Posted by TCB on Tue, 23 Oct 2007 16:06:22 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Since I don't know anything about Macs but do know a little about finance, I thought I'd post the following. It's from a relentlessly PRO APPLE site, so no complaints about the fact that I'm Mac bashing.

http://www.appleinsider.com/articles/07/10/23/apples_worldwide_mac_market_share_now_3_2_percent_report.html

They had another bangup quarter (helped by the usual bump in educational sales) and were up over 6% on the day when trading opened. You couldn't pry my Debian boxes away from me for any BSD variant (DRIVERS BELONG IN THE KERNEL), but I wish I had every penny of my net worth in Apple stock for the past three years or so. Consumer/tech is not where I'd want my money now, but I would have taken the 10x return in less than three years. $1k invested in AAPL on Jan 1, 2005 would be worth over $11,000 today, assuming one had the cajones not to take some money off the table.

TCB

Subject: Re: AAPL

Posted by excelav on Tue, 23 Oct 2007 17:52:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

PJ is not Apple friendly, they have released false, damaging information about Apple in the past. Recently the WSJ put Apples Market Share between 6 and 7%. I guess it all depends on where you get your information. I think Apples stock is over inflated. It's about to get a bump, but then...

<http://marketshare.hitslink.com/report.aspx?qprid=2>

<http://blogs.business2.com/apple/2007/10/mac-installed-b.htm> I

http://www.thestreet.com/_yahoo/newsanalysis/techhardware/10382167.html?cm_ven=YAHOO&cm_cat=FREE&cm_ite=NA

<http://marketshare.hitslink.com/report.aspx?qprid=0>

"TCB" <nobody@ishere.com> wrote:

>

>Since I don't know anything about Macs but do know a little about finance,
>I thought I'd post the following. It's from a relentlessly PRO APPLE site, >so no complaints about the fact that I'm Mac bashing.

>

> http://www.appleinsider.com/articles/07/10/23/apples_worldwide_mac_market_share_now_3_2_percent_report.html

de_mac_market_share_now_3_2_percent_report.html

>

>They had another bangup quarter (helped by the usual bump in educational >sales) and were up over 6% on the day when trading opened. You couldn't pry

>my Debian boxes away from me for any BSD variant (DRIVERS BELONG IN THE KERNEL),

>but I wish I had every penny of my net worth in Apple stock for the past >three years or so. Consumer/tech is not where I'd want my money now, but

>I would have taken the 10x return in less than three years. $1k invested >in AAPL on Jan 1, 2005 would be worth over $11,000 today, assuming one had >the cajones not to take some money off the table.

>

>TCB

Subject: Re: AAPL

Posted by excelav on Tue, 23 Oct 2007 22:15:34 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I think this will me short lived, but who knows.

<http://bits.blogs.nytimes.com/2007/10/23/how-apple-can-keep-its-value/>

"James McCloskey" <excelsm@hotmail.com> wrote:

>

>PJ is not Apple friendly, they have released false, damaging information >about Apple in the past. Recently the WSJ put Apples Market Share between >6 and 7%. I guess it all depends on where you get your information. I think

>Apples stock is over inflated. It's about to get a bump, but then...

>

><http://marketshare.hitslink.com/report.aspx?qprid=2>

>

> <http://blogs.business2.com/apple/2007/10/mac-installed-b.htm> I

>

> http://www.thestreet.com/_yahoo/newsanalysis/techhardware/10382167.html?cm_ven=YAHOO&cm_cat=FREE&cm_ite=NA

>

><http://marketshare.hitslink.com/report.aspx?qprid=0>

>

>"TCB" <nobody@ishere.com> wrote:

>>

>>Since I don't know anything about Macs but do know a little about finance,

>>I thought I'd post the following. It's from a relentlessly PRO APPLE site,

>>so no complaints about the fact that I'm Mac bashing.

>>

>> http://www.appleinsider.com/articles/07/10/23/apples_worldwi

de_mac_market_share_now_3_2_percent_report.html

>>

>>They had another bangup quarter (helped by the usual bump in educational >>sales) and were up over 6% on the day when trading opened. You couldn't
>pry

>>my Debian boxes away from me for any BSD variant (DRIVERS BELONG IN THE >KERNEL),

>>but I wish I had every penny of my net worth in Apple stock for the past >>three years or so. Consumer/tech is not where I'd want my money now, but >>I would have taken the 10x return in less than three years. $1k invested >>in AAPL on Jan 1, 2005 would be worth over $11,000 today, assuming one had

>>the cajones not to take some money off the table.

>>

>>TCB

>
