If I was closer, I'd buy these and set them out by the road in front of our house, turn them on and watch the expressions on the faces of the asshole kids who speed by here going 80 when their cars start veering off the road into the bar ditch.

Excellent! ;)

I'm tempted myself..

I've seen what something much smaller than these will do with just a flashlight battery powering them. . .

sleeping with fists and i have discovered the age available fountain of youth...we only put our glasses on when watching tv or using sharp objects. we're thing of getting special bifocals that have a small corrective part set in a large area of plain glass. this way we won't have to take them off and spoil the illusion.
