I just installed XP on my computer from ME. I downloaded the drivers and PARIS appeared to be functioning correctly. Everytime I close PARIS, I get a Driver error and then the A BLUE SCREEN. I read earlier post about this subject, but it refers you to a link that no longer works. Can anyone detail out how to solve this error? It mentioned something about the registry.

You need to install the Paris XP Subsystem installer and follow the directions EXACTLY. Get it here.

if you install the xp sub-system, which is available on the page that I posted the link for, that will fix your COE problems. So in summary, you need to install the new scherzo drivers for xp and also install the Paris XP sub-system, following the exact instructions, in addition to installing Paris.

Uninstall everything man, and start all over. Be very VERY conscious of that path the subsystem installer for the effects patch sets up by default, it will try to add a \parispro to whatever path you put in. Let me repeat that - it will try to add a \parispro to the path you set for the installation folder.
