
Subject: Greetings from AZ

Posted by [dc\[3\]](#) on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 09:20:53 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Okay, went to one day of the NAMM show and said bugger it, and grabbed the family and went to Havasu.

Man, I had actually forgotten what nice air smells like...

I have to get out of SoCal more often. This is cool.

Going to see London Bridge and the river tomorrow. The Colorado river is one of the purest, beautiful, almost elemental things on earth.

Then on Monday we head to Quartzite for the gem and mineral show. Need some quartz to go on top of the studio monitors.

Take a break. Get away. I'm glad I did.

NAMM-schmamm One day was enough.

Great show, saw some old friends (man I miss running into SSC at shows!) but even on Friday there were too damn many people there. Business-wise a good show for the vendors, said everyone I spoke to.

Big news? umm yeah... Gibson and TC are doing a merger.

That's right Gibson guitar, as in Henry's company, and the Danish outfit TC are merging.

This cannot be good.

DC

Subject: Re: Greetings from AZ

Posted by Bill L on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 14:59:06 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That sounds like a great trip. I've never seen that bridge. The idea makes me smile. We Americans are funny people. Definitely a must-see if you are in the area.

I don't see why there should be a problem with those 2 companies merging. I'm sure it is motivated by Gibson's desire to move in more digital/modern directions, which does not at all bother me. If they get their wireless technology working well and affordable it would be a real time saver for musicians and sound people who do frequent hit and run set ups.

Personally I love what digital technology has done for the guitar. I use modern digital modeling and effects technology powered by good old fashioned vacuum tubes and beefy power transformers every day in my guitar rig and it works beautifully, giving me the best of both worlds: versatility and great sound.

DC wrote:

- > Okay, went to one day of the NAMM show and said
 - > bugger it, and grabbed the family and went to Havasu.
 - >
 - > Man, I had actually forgotten what nice air smells like...
 - >
 - > I have to get out of SoCal more often. This is cool.
 - >
 - > Going to see London Bridge and the river tomorrow.
 - > The Colorado river is one of the purest, beautiful,
 - > almost elemental things on earth.
 - >
 - > Then on Monday we head to Quartzite for the gem and
 - > mineral show. Need some quartz to go on top of the
 - > studio monitors.
 - >
 - > Take a break. Get away. I'm glad I did.
 - >
 - > NAMM-schmamm One day was enough.
 - >
 - > Great show, saw some old friends (man I miss running into
 - > SSC at shows!) but even on Friday there were too damn
 - > many people there. Business-wise a good show for the
 - > vendors, said everyone I spoke to.
 - >
 - > Big news? umm yeah... Gibson and TC are doing a merger.
 - >
 - > That's right Gibson guitar, as in Henry's company, and
 - > the Danish outfit TC are merging.
 - >
 - > This cannot be good.
 - >
 - > DC
 - >
-
-

Subject: Re: Greetings from AZ
Posted by chuck duffy on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 15:20:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sounds like a blast!

"DC" <dc@spammersinhell.com> wrote:

>
>Okay, went to one day of the NAMM show and said
>bugger it, and grabbed the family and went to Havasu.
>
>Man, I had actually forgotten what nice air smells like...
>
>I have to get out of SoCal more often. This is cool.
>
>Going to see London Bridge and the river tomorrow.
>The Colorado river is one of the purest, beautiful,
>almost elemental things on earth.
>
>Then on Monday we head to Quartzite for the gem and >mineral show. Need some quartz to go on top of the >studio monitors.
>
>Take a break. Get away. I'm glad I did.
>
>NAMM-schmamm One day was enough.
>
>Great show, saw some old friends (man I miss running into >SSC at shows!) but even on Friday there were too damn
>many people there. Business-wise a good show for the >vendors, said everyone I spoke to.
>
>Big news? umm yeah... Gibson and TC are doing a merger.
>
>That's right Gibson guitar, as in Henry's company, and >the Danish outfit TC are merging.
>
>This cannot be good.
>
>DC
>

Subject: Re: Greetings from AZ
Posted by Bill L on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 18:47:17 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ah... I see your point.

DC wrote:

> Henry J. from Gibson is a notorious bozo.

>

> The concern from my end is that he doesn't "brand manage"

> TC's various companies into the can. We still don't know > who is really running things, so there is hope, but the big > question is who will influence whom.

>

> We're off to the river!

>

> DC

>

>

> Bill L <bill@billlorentzen.com> wrote:

>> That sounds like a great trip. I've never seen that bridge. The idea >> makes me smile. We Americans are funny people. Definitely a must-see if >> you are in the area.

>

>>

>> I don't see why there should be a problem with those 2 companies >> merging. I'm sure it is motivated by Gibson's desire to move in more >> digital/modern directions, which does not at all bother me. If they get >> their wireless technology working well and affordable it would be a real

>

>

>> time saver for musicians and sound people who do frequent hit and run >> set ups.

>>

>> Personally I love what digital technology has done for the guitar. I use

>

>> modern digital modeling and effects technology powered by good old >> fashioned vacuum tubes and beefy power transformers every day in my >> guitar rig and it works beautifully, giving me the best of both worlds:

>

>> versatility and great sound.

>>

>> DC wrote:

>>> Okay, went to one day of the NAMM show and said

>>> bugger it, and grabbed the family and went to Havasu.

>>>

>>> Man, I had actually forgotten what nice air smells like...

>>>

>>> I have to get out of SoCal more often. This is cool.

>>>

>>> Going to see London Bridge and the river tomorrow.

>>> The Colorado river is one of the purest, beautiful,

>>> almost elemental things on earth.

>>>
>>> Then on Monday we head to Quartzite for the gem and >>> mineral show. Need some quartz to go on top of the >>> studio monitors.
>>>
>>> Take a break. Get away. I'm glad I did.
>>>
>>> NAMM-schmamm One day was enough.
>>>
>>> Great show, saw some old friends (man I miss running into >>> SSC at shows!) but even on Friday there were too damn
>>> many people there. Business-wise a good show for the >>> vendors, said everyone I spoke to.
>>>
>>> Big news? umm yeah... Gibson and TC are doing a merger.
>>>
>>> That's right Gibson guitar, as in Henry's company, and >>> the Danish outfit TC are merging.
>>>
>>> This cannot be good.
>>>
>>> DC
>>>
>

Subject: Re: Greetings from AZ
Posted by Dedric Terry on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 18:56:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I read about Roland taking a majority of Cakewalk - no surprised there, but no Gibson and TC. I had high hopes for TC's continued development in the digital audio market. Surely Gibson will kill their products off with inane detours into left field.

Dedric

On 1/20/08 11:47 AM, in article 47939a76@linux, "Bill L"
<bill@billlorentzen.com> wrote:

> Ah... I see your point.
>
> DC wrote:
>> Henry J. from Gibson is a notorious bozo.
>>
>> The concern from my end is that he doesn't "brand manage"
>> TC's various companies into the can. We still don't know >> who is really running things, so there is hope, but the big >> question is who will influence whom.

>>
>> We're off to the river!
>>
>> DC
>>
>>
>> Bill L <bill@billlorentzen.com> wrote:
>>> That sounds like a great trip. I've never seen that bridge. The idea >>> makes me smile. We Americans are funny people. Definitely a must-see if >>> you are in the area.
>>
>>>
>>> I don't see why there should be a problem with those 2 companies >>> merging. I'm sure it is motivated by Gibson's desire to move in more >>> digital/modern directions, which does not at all bother me. If they get
>>
>>> their wireless technology working well and affordable it would be a real
>>
>>> time saver for musicians and sound people who do frequent hit and run >>> set ups.
>>>
>>> Personally I love what digital technology has done for the guitar. I use
>>
>>> modern digital modeling and effects technology powered by good old >>> fashioned vacuum tubes and beefy power transformers every day in my >>> guitar rig and it works beautifully, giving me the best of both worlds:
>>
>>> versatility and great sound.
>>>
>>> DC wrote:
>>>> Okay, went to one day of the NAMM show and said
>>>> bugger it, and grabbed the family and went to Havasu.
>>>>
>>>> Man, I had actually forgotten what nice air smells like...
>>>>
>>>> I have to get out of SoCal more often. This is cool.
>>>>
>>>> Going to see London Bridge and the river tomorrow.
>>>> The Colorado river is one of the purest, beautiful,
>>>> almost elemental things on earth.
>>>>
>>>> Then on Monday we head to Quartzite for the gem and >>>> mineral show. Need some quartz to go on top of the >>>> studio monitors.
>>>>
>>>> Take a break. Get away. I'm glad I did.
>>>>

>>>> NAMM-schmamm One day was enough.
>>>>
>>>> Great show, saw some old friends (man I miss running into >>>> SSC at shows!) but even on Friday there were too damn
>>>> many people there. Business-wise a good show for the >>>> vendors, said everyone I spoke to.
>>>>
>>>> Big news? umm yeah... Gibson and TC are doing a merger.
>>>>
>>>> That's right Gibson guitar, as in Henry's company, and >>>> the Danish outfit TC are merging.
>>>>
>>>> This cannot be good.
>>>>
>>>> DC
>>>>
>>

Subject: Re: Greetings from AZ
Posted by [dc\[3\]](#) on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 19:19:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Henry J. from Gibson is a notorious bozo.

The concern from my end is that he doesn't "brand manage"
TC's various companies into the can. We still don't know who is really running things, so there is hope, but the big question is who will influence whom.

We're off to the river!

DC

Bill L <bill@billlorentzen.com> wrote:

>That sounds like a great trip. I've never seen that bridge. The idea >makes me smile. We Americans are funny people. Definitely a must-see if >you are in the area.

>

>I don't see why there should be a problem with those 2 companies >merging. I'm sure it is motivated by Gibson's desire to move in more >digital/modern directions, which does not at all bother me. If they get >their wireless technology working well and affordable it would be a real >time saver for musicians and sound people who do frequent hit and run

>set ups.

>

>Personally I love what digital technology has done for the guitar. I use

>modern digital modeling and effects technology powered by good old >fashioned vacuum tubes and beefy power transformers every day in my >guitar rig and it works beautifully, giving me the best of both worlds:

>versatility and great sound.

>

>DC wrote:

>> Okay, went to one day of the NAMM show and said

>> bugger it, and grabbed the family and went to Havasu.

>>

>> Man, I had actually forgotten what nice air smells like...

>>

>> I have to get out of SoCal more often. This is cool.

>>

>> Going to see London Bridge and the river tomorrow.

>> The Colorado river is one of the purest, beautiful,

>> almost elemental things on earth.

>>

>> Then on Monday we head to Quartzite for the gem and >> mineral show. Need some quartz to go on top of the >> studio monitors.

>>

>> Take a break. Get away. I'm glad I did.

>>

>> NAMM-schmamm One day was enough.

>>

>> Great show, saw some old friends (man I miss running into >> SSC at shows!) but even on Friday there were too damn

>> many people there. Business-wise a good show for the >> vendors, said everyone I spoke to.

>>

>> Big news? umm yeah... Gibson and TC are doing a merger.

>>

>> That's right Gibson guitar, as in Henry's company, and >> the Danish outfit TC are merging.

>>

>> This cannot be good.

>>

>> DC

>>

Subject: Re: Greetings from AZ

Posted by excelav on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 21:08:26 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

"DC" <dc@spammersinhell.com> wrote:

>
>Okay, went to one day of the NAMM show and said
>bugger it, and grabbed the family and went to Havasu.
>
>Man, I had actually forgotten what nice air smells like...
>
>I have to get out of SoCal more often. This is cool.
>
>Going to see London Bridge and the river tomorrow.
>The Colorado river is one of the purest, beautiful,
>almost elemental things on earth.
>
>Then on Monday we head to Quartzite for the gem and >mineral show. Need some quartz to go on top of the >studio monitors.
>
>Take a break. Get away. I'm glad I did.
>
>NAMM-schmamm One day was enough.
>
>Great show, saw some old friends (man I miss running into >SSC at shows!) but even on Friday there were too damn
>many people there. Business-wise a good show for the >vendors, said everyone I spoke to.
>
>Big news? umm yeah... Gibson and TC are doing a merger.
>
>That's right Gibson guitar, as in Henry's company, and >the Danish outfit TC are merging.
>
>This cannot be good.
>
>DC
>

That is not just bad news, that is vary bad news! You would think by now these companies would stay the hell away from Gibson. Dumb move!

Subject: Re: Greetings from AZ

Posted by DC on Mon, 21 Jan 2008 03:04:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

A lot of folks are saying "this could be a good thing, look at the good influence and product TC could bring to Gibson"

But it sure didn't work that way with Chrysler and Daimler did it?

Seems like bad leaders and a problematic corporate culture are never solved by mergers. A takeover and a total house cleaning of execs? Perhaps, but I don't remember a merger that fixed a problem leadership or culture.

Saw Parker Dam today. Just gorgeous and since it is off the beaten path, almost deserted. Well, except for the two armed guards and the netting all over the lake side of the dam so ghouls cannot drop a demo charge down against the dam underwater where the force will be directed into the dam by the water...

sh*t

Oh, and you can't walk across the dam anymore, and there are serious concrete obstacles to negotiate around to keep out the truck bombs.

DC

Dedric Terry <dterry@keyofd.net> wrote:

>I read about Roland taking a majority of Cakewalk - no surprised there, but >no Gibson and TC. I had high hopes for TC's continued development in the >digital audio market. Surely Gibson will kill their products off with inane >detours into left field.

>

>Dedric

>

>On 1/20/08 11:47 AM, in article 47939a76@linux, "Bill L"

><bill@billlorentzen.com> wrote:

>

>> Ah... I see your point.

>>

>> DC wrote:

>>> Henry J. from Gibson is a notorious bozo.

>>>

>>> The concern from my end is that he doesn't "brand manage"

>>> TC's various companies into the can. We still don't know >>> who is really running things, so there is hope, but the big >>> question is who will influence whom.
>>>
>>> We're off to the river!
>>>
>>> DC
>>>
>>>
>>> Bill L <bill@billlorentzen.com> wrote:
>>>> That sounds like a great trip. I've never seen that bridge. The idea >>>> makes me smile. We Americans are funny people. Definitely a must-see if
>>>>
>>>> you are in the area.
>>>>
>>>> I don't see why there should be a problem with those 2 companies >>>> merging. I'm sure it is motivated by Gibson's desire to move in more >>>> digital/modern directions, which does not at all bother me. If they get
>>>>
>>>> their wireless technology working well and affordable it would be a real
>>>>
>>>> time saver for musicians and sound people who do frequent hit and run >>>> set ups.
>>>>
>>>> Personally I love what digital technology has done for the guitar. I use
>>>>
>>>> modern digital modeling and effects technology powered by good old >>>> fashioned vacuum tubes and beefy power transformers every day in my >>>> guitar rig and it works beautifully, giving me the best of both worlds:
>>>>
>>>> versatility and great sound.
>>>>
>>>> DC wrote:
>>>>> Okay, went to one day of the NAMM show and said
>>>>> bugger it, and grabbed the family and went to Havasu.
>>>>>
>>>>> Man, I had actually forgotten what nice air smells like...
>>>>>
>>>>> I have to get out of SoCal more often. This is cool.
>>>>>
>>>>> Going to see London Bridge and the river tomorrow.
>>>>> The Colorado river is one of the purest, beautiful,
>>>>> almost elemental things on earth.
>>>>>

>>>>> Then on Monday we head to Quartzite for the gem and >>>>> mineral show. Need some quartz to go on top of the >>>>> studio monitors.
>>>>>
>>>>> Take a break. Get away. I'm glad I did.
>>>>>
>>>>> NAMM-schmamm One day was enough.
>>>>>
>>>>> Great show, saw some old friends (man I miss running into >>>>> SSC at shows!) but even on Friday there were too damn
>>>>> many people there. Business-wise a good show for the >>>>> vendors, said everyone I spoke to.
>>>>>
>>>>> Big news? umm yeah... Gibson and TC are doing a merger.
>>>>>
>>>>> That's right Gibson guitar, as in Henry's company, and >>>>> the Danish outfit TC are merging.
>>>>>
>>>>> This cannot be good.
>>>>>
>>>>> DC
>>>>>
>>>
>

Subject: Re: Greetings from AZ
Posted by [dc\[3\]](#) on Tue, 22 Jan 2008 03:43:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Back home again!

It's nice, except for the crap that passes for air 'round here.

Wanted to share the secret for finding great food in a strange town:

Pull off, go to the city center, ask a cop.

A Sargent, no less, directed us to some of the best vintage-style mexican (you know the way they used to make it before it became trendy?) I have EVER eaten.

It's in Indio. If you are ever making that damnable trip on the 10 from Quartzsite to El Lay, stop in Indio and find Rincon Norteno restaurant.

Oh-boy... Good stuff.

