While you were gone the Paris NG computer rebooted itself and when it came back up, it spit out the secret to life and the universe...

It's gone now though...

I think I know which moment that was. I was under the shade of a tree doing a painting and smoking a peace pipe when suddenly the truth of everything appeared before me and I was one with the universe. I telepathically beamed my vision to multiple locations (including this server of course) before receiving a sudden pang of pain which seemed to have a psychic relationship to the words "Memory Exception Error in block FFE3 2B1A" at which point I suddenly found myself falling off my chair, narrowly avoiding painting my nose green in the process.

>It's gone now though...

Yes, it has. ;o)

>where'd you go??

Northern NSW. In particular Byron Bay, among other, err, similar places.
;o)

Cheers,
Kim.

What delights does Byron Bay have to offer?

Hey Kim, did you notice in the paper a few weeks ago that there was a large recording studio including house, for sale around the mid $300,000.00 just near Byron?

rrrrrrEALLY?!?

Gee, that sounds awefully tempting. It's probably gone by now...

Mmm, I don't know if I'd want to actually live in Byron though. It's very cool, but I'm not sure if it's big enough to maintain my interest.

But strewth... $300,000 for a house including studio?

Cheers,
Kim.
