rhaps as long as I can. XP is a bloated nuisance which calls home with unknown information... And it's DRM is 10 times worse than Sony rootkit.
And after the rootkit exposure, it is PROVEN that none of the antivirus companies have a clue on what they are doing.... sorry to rant... but I would suggest to do a process of elimination on your components first. If you have a spare video card, try to replace that. It don't take much of a power surge/purge to burn up components!
