

---

Subject: Question . . .

Posted by Sarah on Thu, 27 Sep 2007 09:35:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Um . . . (blush) . . . what does "native" mean in this world of DAWs?

Don't hit me . . .

S

---

---

Subject: Re: Question . . .

Posted by Ted Gerber on Thu, 27 Sep 2007 11:45:56 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Software only

plugins etc that are executed entirely from within the computer hard drive, with no physical hardware aiding or associated with it (either inside the computer - like a pci card, or outside the computer - like a reverb unit).

So waves/psp/sonalksis/melodyne etc plugins are native, but Liquid Mix (a box outside the computer) UAD (a DSP card inside the computer).

The confusing part is that some non-native plugins are seen by host applications as if they are native. So Paris sees UAD plugins as native, even though they have their own separate DSP card.

Ted

"Sarah" <sarahjane@sarahtonin.com> wrote:

>Um . . . (blush) . . . what does "native" mean in this world of DAWs?

>

>Don't hit me . . .

>

>S

>

>

---

---

Subject: Re: Question . . .

Posted by Ted Gerber on Thu, 27 Sep 2007 11:48:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Should be-

>So waves/psp/sonalksis/melodyne etc plugins are native, but Liquid Mix (a >box outside the computer) UAD (a DSP card inside the computer) _are not_..

---

---

Subject: Re: Question . . .
Posted by Neil on Thu, 27 Sep 2007 13:22:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

"Sarah" <sarahjane@sarahtonin.com> wrote:
>Um . . . (blush) . . . what does "native" mean in this world of DAWs?

It means DAW's that run around with primitive weapons &
loincloths.

:D

---

---

Subject: Re: Question . . .
Posted by rick on Thu, 27 Sep 2007 13:55:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

native+computer does all the processing non-native additional hardware handles the audio/dsp (ie paris eds cards)

On Thu, 27 Sep 2007 02:35:33 -0700, "Sarah" <sarahjane@sarahtonin.com> wrote:

>Um . . . (blush) . . . what does "native" mean in this world of DAWs?
>
>Don't hit me . . .
>
>S
>

---

---

Subject: Re: Question . . .
Posted by DJ on Fri, 28 Sep 2007 04:10:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

"Neil" <OIUOIU@OIU.com> wrote in message news:46fbae7f$1@linux...
>
> "Sarah" <sarahjane@sarahtonin.com> wrote:

>>Um . . . (blush) . . . what does "native" mean in this world of DAWs?

>

> It means DAW's that run around with primitive weapons &

> loincloths.

>

> :D

thanks for the visual

---