A big wind up followed through by a huge hug

Sending out a pile of healing vibes her way

Praying for your daughter Rick. What's her name and how old, if you don't mind sharing...Jim

I'm a Dad myself and I can't imagine what that must be like, Rick. Peace to you, healing wishes to her - and courage to the both of you.

her name is dawn and she turns 43 on the 19th. unfortunately the last time it reactivated she again waited too long for the gamma knife to be used, so a more general radiation blast to the head was used. having done that it is now most likely that it is now out as an option. i don't know if the gamma knife is off the table and we won't know if invasive surgery (would be her 3rd) is viable until she meets with her doctor on tuesday.

well my bad on this. it's not my daughter that needs the stupid slapped out of their heads, it's the doctors. i appears that they collectively have been attributing all her symptoms to anything other than the obvious which they are all aware.
