Hi,

after a fresh installation with the new Xp driver, the EDS effects didn't show up. Can someone help me to fix this? I remember this issue from the early PARIS days in the late 90s, but I can't remember what the resolution was.

Thanks,

Endre

P.S.:

I'm sorry if this topic has been covered already, but I'm too exhausted to search through the forum, since I've spent the last few days/nights with putting together my most complex PC to date:

12 cores in 2 CPUs,
8GB RAM,
UAD2 Quad Omni,
TC Powercore 6000,
RME Fireface 800
fully loaded VirtuaVia Expansion Chassis with 4 EDS-1000s
8 channel hardware RAID with a net 5.5 TB RAID50 storage capacity
Innovatek water cooling for the CPUs, RAM and all 10 HDDs
The weight of the machine is over 40 kg!

I think it's pretty unique for an audio PC, especially for PARIS, so I'll post some pics once I'll finish with everything.

Heya Endre; by not showing up, you mean you don't get a dropdown list of FX in your inserts when you click?

I think the solution for me was going back through Mike's driver install instructions, checking each step carefully - there was one I'd skimmed over (I think it was adding the path info).

The dropdown menu has no EDS effect, it only shows External. I'll go back to the instructions and check all the steps again.

Hey Endre, how'd it work out? Did you find the issue?

Wow, one can only dream about support like this, thank you guys:))

No, I didn't get lost, but had to proceed with the hardware installation and system configuration. Although it's gone pretty smoothly so far, the setup is really complex and I have to do everything twice (Xp + Win7), so it takes a long time.

I'm expecting to be able to get back to the PARIS issue tomorrow, I'll keep you posted.

I finally managed to redo the installation and it's all fine now.

During my first attempt I think I replaced the PARIS_StudioControlLibrary.dll file before running parisxpeffects.exe and not after, as it's written in the instructions.
