Hello to all of you PARISians! Brian Tankersley here.

It's been a very long time since I've visited, but it's really nice to see PARIS still being appreciated for it's merits. I'm sure a goodly number of you were members of the old Chuck Duffy forum. The best internet forum of all time. Dang it, I miss that guy! Loved those days of interacting with an amazing group of humans.

Props to you, Kerry, for stepping up to the Plate(mono) and carrying on. And to Mike Audet for being a coding beast! Most impressive!

Seems I'm a little late on this subject, and maybe everybody is already taken care of, and maybe I already said this publicly some years ago (memory gap), but please feel free to distribute the DVD content anyway you wish and to anyone you please, for my part. Come to think of it, I wish I had one myself. Seriously, I do not to my knowledge have a copy. Ironic, yes?

Well, carry (Kerry?) on. And best to all here!

Nice to hear from you Brian

Good to know you're still in the land of the living

Hey Brian,

It's pretty awesome to hear from you after all these years!! I use to love reading all your posts in the Paris forum and on Gearslutz.

Hopefully you stick around and give some pointers again

All the best!

Don

Brian, so very nice to see you here, welcome back! Yeah, I had the same word from AA - it's really kind of you guys to volunteer that, I really learned a lot from the vids and I know many others did. Cool stuff is happening - Mike Audet's been doing a hero's work on software development and is really working hard to get the new ASIO drivers/control panel/MIDI from the C16 package out the door. Drop in any time, you'll find familiar faces still here!

So who's going to be a hero and post it online?

I know I have a copy somewhere in my studio. I will locate it and maybe put it up on YouTube if that is okay.

OK, I finally got off my butt, converted it all to MP4 and started uploading it to Vimeo. Section 1 is up but it's just the splash screen - sections 2-6 are going up as we speak and the rest of the 22 segments will follow. I'll try to give them meaningful tags ASAP but for now look for "Paris Video" and see if you can weed out the ones that are about France or the midnight exploits of a certain member of the Hilton clan.

(Vimeo says it's got to do some sort of conversion now it's uploaded, so probably the first time the whole thing will be viewable is tomorrow).

(Ah, I hit the "freemium" limit - 10 vids a day. First ten are up and processing and I'll up the last 12 over the next two days).

I found it by searching for "Ensoniq Paris" myself. The first video is at:
<http://vimeo.com/118877191>

Kerry, until you customize your account and assign a username, all of your videos should be available at: <http://vimeo.com/user13773609>

Doug

Thanks to Brian, and Kerry, and whomever else was involved in the upload of the Paris DVD. Part 10 appears to be missing, but no biggie!

For me it was more of a nostalgia trip, and an opportunity to meet Brian "face-to-face". (And Aaron, albeit for a second).

Brian was always so helpful with answering questions on the old newsgroup, and personally helped me through a couple of sticky situations.

(As did Edmund himself..)

Would have loved to have had this back in the day, when I needed it most.

Still using and enjoying Paris! (Warts and all..)

Best to all,
Kim

Whoops! I saw that Part 10 was dodgy, just forgot to fix it - will get to that ASAP, sorry!

Hey Kerry,

Have you thought about setting up a custom URL to make it easier to find these videos?

Login to Vimeo and then go to My Settings/Profile and set the "Vimeo URL" to something appropriate for your account...

Regards,
Doug

Took me approximately forever, but more meaningful tags have been added to the videos, and the mysteriously malfunctioning Clip 10 is now fixed. Enjoy!
