Subject: Paris is home...ProTools is not.

I just had to post. I've been using ProTools LE 7.3 at school. We use it because ProTools is the industry standard, and we should be teaching kids to use the most relevant technology. But, it is so nice to get home to PARIS. I'm using the crossover on an effect bus to remove everything below 3k before feeding the send into the DP Pro hall. It sounds so sweet. Every time I hit stop, I hear the most awesome, shimmering, swirling reverb.

It's nice to be home.

Mike

It's interesting that you have to get away from Paris (or have worked extensively with another DAW) to really appreciate it. I had hardly any DAW experience before I bought Paris. The workarounds were a big factor in my moving to a native solution. since then, I've wished a number of times that I had kept my old Frankenstein rig together. It was a routing nightmare, but it never failed to deliver sonically.

I'm attaching a .zip file of a word.doc flier that I did about 3 years ago for a producer who was curious about the studio. There are pics embedded.
