
Subject: eSession

Posted by Carl Amburn on Wed, 12 Dec 2007 23:30:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Saw a blurb in a magazine recently. Anyone else checked out eSession.com ?
Looks interesting...

-Carl

Subject: Re: eSession

Posted by Carl Amburn on Thu, 13 Dec 2007 01:09:25 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yeah, no doubt. I've worked long-distance projects for quite a few years now via internet, so I think it's great that someone is creating a community for it - should be good for everyone.

-Carl

"LaMont" <jjdpro@gmail.com> wrote in message news:47607907$1@linux...

>

> I think this is the Future of Studio Production. Let's face it, today,

> most

> of us have the tools @ home or studio to record some really good tracks.

>

> Even with the decline of the Commercial studio, I'm excited that I can

> call/email/IM

> a Top rated player/singer for a session that 10 years ago would've been

> cost

> prohibited.

>

> We actually do what eSessions is doing via paypal. Most, Top players have > a site or myspace page. And, most of these LA. NY, Nashville/Atlanta gals > and guys are more than willing to render their services for $$..

>

> Esessions is just a more elaborate way of organizing the 'Wild West' way > we are going about business today. I applaud it. And I hope it becomes the

> Ebay for Session work..

> "Carl Amburn" <carlamburn@hotmail.com> wrote:

>> Saw a blurb in a magazine recently. Anyone else checked out eSession.com

> ?

>> Looks interesting...

>>

>>-Carl

>>

>>

>

Subject: Re: eSession
Posted by LaMontt on Thu, 13 Dec 2007 01:12:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I think this is the Future of Studio Production. Let's face it, today, most of us have the tools @ home or studio to record some really good tracks.

Even with the decline of the Commercial studio, I'm excited that I can call/email/IM a Top rated player/singer for a session that 10 years ago would've been cost prohibited.

We actually do what sessions is doing via paypal. Most, Top players have a site or myspace page. And, most of these LA, NY, Nashville/Atlanta gals and guys are more than willing to render their services for $$.

Esessions is just a more elaborate way of organizing the 'Wild West' way we are going about business today. I applaud it. And I hope it becomes the Ebay for Session work..

"Carl Amburn" <carlamburn@hotmail.com> wrote:

>Saw a blurb in a magazine recently. Anyone else checked out eSession.com?

>Looks interesting...

>

>-Carl

>

>

Subject: Re: eSession
Posted by Nei on Thu, 13 Dec 2007 19:32:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hey that seems pretty cool! There's a handful of well-known names on there, too! Just think, you could have Elliott Randall play a guitar solo on one of yer tunes: "Yeah, Elliott, just gimme something like what you did on 'Reelin' in the Years' & we should be ok."

:)

"Carl Amburn" <carlamburn@hotmail.com> wrote:

>Yeah, no doubt. I've worked long-distance projects for quite a few years now >via internet, so I think it's great that someone is creating a community for >it - should be good for everyone.

>
>-Carl
>
>"LaMont" <jjdpro@gmail.com> wrote in message news:47607907$1@linux...
>>
>> I think this is the Future of Studio Production. Let's face it, today,

>> most
>> of us have the tools @ home or studio to record some really good tracks.
>>
>> Even with the decline of the Commercial studio, I'm excited that I can

>> call/email/IM
>> a Top rated player/singer for a session that 10 years ago would've been

>> cost
>> prohibited.
>>
>> We actually do what sessions is doing via paypal. Most, Top players have >> a site or myspace page. And, most of these LA. NY, Nashville/Atlanta gals
>> and guys are more than willing to render their services for $$..
>>
>> Sessions is just a more elaborate way of organizing the "Wild West" way >> we are going about business today. I applaud it. And I hope it becomes the
>> Ebay for Session work..
>> "Carl Amburn" <carlamburn@hotmail.com> wrote:
>>> Saw a blurb in a magazine recently. Anyone else checked out eSession.com
>> ?
>>> Looks interesting...
>>>
>>>-Carl
>>>
>>>
>>
>
>
