Subject: MacBook Pro for serious work.
Posted by gene lennon on Wed, 09 Aug 2006 23:00:40 GMT

drives, USB drives and audio interfaces that would work as a portable solution for editing and mixing on my Intel /MBP. I now have a good solution that is based on a new ExpressCard/34.

I posted about it on Gearslutz if anyone is interested.

http://www.gearslutz.com/board/showthread.php?t=80869

If you read my posts you will see that I am writing, once again, as if English is NOT my native language. :-)

Gene

Subject: Re: MacBook Pro for serious work.
Posted by excelav on Wed, 09 Aug 2006 23:22:37 GMT

Vary cool Gene!

Thanks
James

"gene lennon" <glennon@NOSPmyrealbox.com> wrote:
>
>

Firewire
>drives, USB drives and audio interfaces that would work as a portable solution >for editing and mixing on my Intel /MBP. I now have a good solution that >is based on a new ExpressCard/34.
>
>I posted about it on Gearslutz if anyone is interested.
>
>http://www.gearslutz.com/board/showthread.php?t=80869
>
>
>If you read my posts you will see that I am writing, once again, as if English
>is NOT my native language. :-)
>
>Gene

>

Subject: Re: MacBook Pro for serious work.
Posted by gene lennon on Thu, 10 Aug 2006 00:28:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

"James McCloskey" <excelsm@hotmail.com> wrote:
>
>Vary cool Gene!
>
>Thanks
>James
>
>

or whatever comes after the Quad!

I hope to have a Quad 3Ghz Mac Pro to play with within the next few weeks.
Gene

Subject: Re: MacBook Pro for serious work.
Posted by Dedric Terry on Thu, 10 Aug 2006 01:19:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The numbers on the dual dual core Dells on the Nuendo hardware forum are amazing. Combined with new (beta) RME drivers (or Lynx cards), these machines are getting fantastic results at 64 and even 32 sample latencies.

Intel has a winner for sure. I wondering if I can hold out for dual quad cores.... :-)

On 8/9/06 6:28 PM, in article 44da7d9d$1@linux, "gene lennon"
<glennon@NOSPmyrealbox.com> wrote:

>
> "James McCloskey" <excelsm@hotmail.com> wrote:
>>
>> Vary cool Gene!
>>
>> Thanks
>> James
>>
>>

> or whatever comes after the Quad!

>
> I hope to have a Quad 3Ghz Mac Pro to play with within the next few weeks.
> Gene
>

Subject: Re: MacBook Pro for serious work.
Posted by excelav on Thu, 10 Aug 2006 02:15:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

"gene lennon" <glennon@NOSPmyrealbox.com> wrote:
>
>"James McCloskey" <excelsm@hotmail.com> wrote:
>>
>>Vary cool Gene!
>>
>>Thanks
>>James
>>
>>

>or whatever comes after the Quad!
>
>I hope to have a Quad 3Ghz Mac Pro to play with within the next few weeks.
>Gene
>

Let us know what you think. A report would be great!

James