Just think... you could have your choice of an SSL or a Neve or an API control surface with knobs to turn and buttons to push and moving faders bouncing up and down. Or, depending on which plugins you've inserted some channels would be Neves and some would be SSLs and some would have a little Pultec EQ or a Fairchild limiter.

Whew!

Plus, it might be the end of RSD! It's be almost like the old days of being a RECORDING ENGINEER! NOT a data entry clerk!

I think around 3k. I think these could be a great option when they get bigger.
