I'm afraid they do... it uses a different plug... (see attached).
Sorry Steve, can't sell you this one.

David.

Wow.. My mistake..On the th Roland MV 8800 & MV 8000 Sampling workstations, they use a PS2 type of mouse.

That special mouse must work only for the VS2480 or the like..

Steve,

I'd call Roland and see what they suggest.

It's not a regular mouse that you could maybe find some kind of adaptor plug for?

Yes, there is a scematic out there for a componant that can be built for it.
I got an estimate from a technician to make it. The cost for the hourly wage and parts is over $100.00 I did se an S-760 sampler with mouse on E-Bay that is at $35.00 right now. Maybe I'll bid on it and if I win, I can always re-sell the sampler on E-Bay w/o the mouse.

Steve,

It's a standard 2 button mouse. Roland will know the pin configuration. Call them.

Hi Steve,

Ya, what's proprietary about it is the wiring to the jack and the = special

Roland pricing. I have two of them and except for the jack there's nothing different about it's behavior.=20

I'll look in the manual for the wiring if you want to pay somebody to = set=20

up the jack correctly. If the info is there that shouldb't cost you = more than $25 in the right tech's hands.

I'll go look and post later.

Hi Steve,
The manual had the pin outs for the RGB video display but not the mouse.
I now understand that it is a MSX Computer mouse. You might try and = Google
that. I guess they were popular in Europe.

This guy might still be selling the converted PS2 to MSX :
<http://perso.wanadoo.es/replay/nice.htm>

I found this if your tech is willing to do it:
<http://home.pages.at/pullrich/mousecon.htm>

Below are all kinds of links that might prove to be fruitful:

a..=20

- 1.. Q: Can I use a standard PC mouse with a Roland sampler?=20
- 2.. A: The Roland sampler's mouse uses different wiring to both the =

PS/2 mouse and serial mouse common on PCs. The Roland sampler's mouse is = a standard MSX computer mouse. More detailed information on this topic, = along some how to convert signals from the Atari mouse and the Amiga = mouse is available at:=20

<http://home.pages.at/pullrich/mu1mouse.htm>=20 and information on a converter to allow the use of a PS/2 mouse is at: =

<http://home.pages.at/pullrich/mousecon.htm>=20

Details (apparently in Portuguese) on converting PS/2 mouse signals to = MSX are at:=20

<http://www.vespanet.com.br/~manuxcritos/ps11mouse.htm>=20

See also the following files in the sgroup archive:=20

What? You belong to another forum? And here we thought we had you exclusively???

Oh the betrayal!

Yes, the DA7.com forum. I own a DA7 MkII. It is digital desk that when it came out a few years back, it listed for $15,550.00. Some poor soul who didn't pay his pawn ticket in Texas is probably a little upset to loose the desk for $700.00 I inserted it quickly into my 10 ft console. Another cool thing that has happened to the studio. You know the 10 foot Argosy cosole (with no equipment in it)? Goes for I am guessing between 5-$700.00, My dad is a cabinet maker and built it for me as a gift, but with a 9 inch X 9 inch elbow resting pad. Great for sittig the guitar pods and such on.(n' music scores n' such) Cooler yet, he built it so the partitians between mixer bays are movable. It is extreamly flexible. So when I got the DA7. I put the Mackie 8 buss on the left side, it's 24 ch expander board on the right, and plopped the DA7 right in the sweet spot... the middle.

Hey steve! Can you post some pictures of your furniture. You know I'm also a DA-7 MKII owner.

Thanks
James

I sat in on a demo of that board by Craig Anderton down in Austin a few years back. Very nice board. Does this board hqave Cubase mapping?

DJ, I don't know how to tell. I am not familiar with such. How does one find out?

You plug it into Cubase & try to see if you can get it to run any of the controls therein. Normally this is done through various MIDI ports & settings.

Deej - is it on the list of Controls surfaces/devices when you pull down that submenu? (too lazy to boot the DAW & check for myself right now LOL!)

Ah ha! Well.. I don't have Cubase. And I rarely use midi for anything except a click track, but I do actually use Paris as my main squeeze. I use the DA7 for an input board.
