Hey Zan,

How are you? Edmund lives near baltimore from what I remember, and he wrote the paris software, ensoniq did the hardware.

Hey Zan,

How's life? If you get a chance please email me. I have questions about amplifying acoustic guitars!

Thanks,

Gantt

Hey, me too . . . I need a good electrified acoustic for live Sarah-tonin things. I'd like a Taylor 614CE, but I don't know if I can justify the expense.

Hey Sarah,

Check out Breedlove Guitars.
Best bang for the the buck IMO.

My problem is that I already have a couple of acoustic guitars that I love.
I'm trying to figure out how to make them sound like themselves on a gig...
I have a Martin M38 w/ a K&K Sound mic + under-the-bridgeplate pu system.
The K&K system sounds great in the studio but getting it to sound like that onstage is a whole 'nother can of worms! 'Tonehouse' (AKA Zan McLeod) has the acoustic thing DOWN and he always plays and sounds great...

For live amplified acoustic guitar gigs I currently use a Variax 700 Acoustic (the one that looks like an acoustic guitar).

It plays great, looks great and sounds great through the PA (more organic and studio sounding than my Ovation acoustic/electric). The Variax is thin, small-bodied and relatively light, but it can sound huge.

It has several decent different acoustic guitar tones with variable "mic placement," other tones (12 string, banjo, sitar, whatnot), has 24 frets, does instant open tunings and transpositions using the onboard DSP, works as a passable bass even, and it beats subjecting a good acoustic guitar to gig abuse.

The only acoustic guitar thing it doesn't do is pick up guitar-top hand percussion slaps.

Worth checking out.

Cheers,
-Jamie

Hey Gantt,

Have you checked out Schertler? The Unico amp sounds incredible. I played my Taylor 312ce through one and never heard a bigger acoustic sound in my entire life. My girlfriend and I just looked at each other and smiled.

Here's the link:

<http://www.schertler.com/inglese/loudspeakers.htm>

Good luck!

Which went out with the '60's anyway.

(unless you're Michael Hedges... but that went out with... well, with Michael Hedges)

Unless you're Tommy Emmanuel, who plays better drums on the top and sides of his guitar than most drummers play on an entire kit.

I second the RIP MH. Legend.

As for guitar amplification, etc, try the I-Beam Active + a soundhole pickup / secondary system, and blend to taste. Works great for me. Also, try AER amps. I've got an AER Compact 60 - fantastic! Very clean, very light, very loud. A lot of pro players are using them (e.g. Preston Reed, John Etheridge, etc).

He played drums for quite a while, didn't he? It certainly shows in his groove when he plays guitar. End of June we're going to the Tommyfest in Newport News, Virginia - 4 nights of concerts and weekend workshops.
