Best 1/2 time show I've seen.

Yeah, it was pretty rocking, but I'm not sure if he sang in key once.
Intonation anyone? Was the monitor system that bad?

Man, Rich, you're picky! I thought he sang just fine.

He sang just like he always has...sort of in tune, but with a lot of spunk that gets him over...3 chords and 4/4 beat.

What I dig is his Quasimoto dance style

I'm not a Springsteen lover but that was a great show.
More exciting than the last few years as I recall.
His voice sounded typically rough to me but not out of character.

I like a few of his songs, but I never thought he was a very good singer, maybe he should have lip synched;)

Yeah Bill, I am picky, but I'm tired of semi talented hacks, who make their money on a public which is essentially clueless promulgated by an industry who has no conscience or soul. Made my skin crawl. He was barely palatable to me in the 70's when I was listening to Michael Brecker, Mozart, Coltrane, Pastorius and Parker. That's why I have a day gig, got tired of stupid, no money gigs. I won't apologize for being such a cermudgeon. I'll crawl back into my crusty hole now.

I am a jazzbo myself, but I do like me some Springsteen. Of course the dirgey folk stuff he sometimes does bores me, but Born to Run or Point Blank - tunes like that hit me where I live.
