All these questions and more... ;o)

Cheers,

Well, I've met Doug Wellington and he's about 6'4". I'm 5'9". He also has hair down to his waist and I'm cueball'esque so there wouldn't be much in the way of mistaking us for each other.....oh yeah.....he's *really* incredibly-as in genius level, smart as well so there's another dissimilarity. I'm not going to start talking about clothes, toothbrushes, etc. That's too gross. where'd you get that stuff anyway?

;o)

Well I have no idea what Kim W looks like, as we have never been in the same room together at the same time to my knowledge...

....hmm, never been seen in the same room at the same time eh? Hmm...

....though I am also about 5'9" and my hair these days somewhat "cueball'esque"... so perhaps we are the same person. I hear we've never been seen in the same room at the same time either... ;o)

....though if we are the same person, who was I talking to on the phone the other week... ...maybe my medication isn't working... ;o)

....and where the hell did I put those distressors?

;o)

Cheers,
Kim.

I was wondering what that Holden was doing in my driveway and why I've been referring to gasoline as being "petrol" lately.
Well, at least I have been paying fewer pence for it lately. If I'm you, then I can say cool stuff like "stone the crows" and it will be OK, right?

Crikey! Actually, I'd probably fit right in with the fauna. When I was a kid, I had a minizoo with snakes, alligators, turtles aanything else I could catch in the local billabong. I did stop drinking over 15 years ago. Can I be an honorary Aussie and not drink beer? I suppose there may be other kinds of *little creatures* you could bring to a pub, but ingesting them might cause problems/get you arrested.

From what I can recall, the average Aussie now drinks more wine than beer.
Gotta save those 'little creatures'.

I used to drink Fosters in another life.....those big litre steel cans.
Man, those things got soooooo rank with the metallic aftertaste once they had been chilled and then warmed up a bit.....which was always a good excuse to drink 'em quick.

Yikes!!! ;o)

You know that's funny.
Most Australians don't / won't drink Fosters...sure says something for their OS marketing though, doesn't it?
BTW, I think those 1 litre cans were only for export or made OS. Don't remember them here.

Hehehe!!!!!!! That's funny! I was introduced to Fosters in 1975 in Columbus Ohio at a bar called the Oar House. I had never seen it before anywhere. About two weeks later I was down in Key West Florida and ran into an old Aussie friend I had met in Mexico the year before. He didn't know what it was either. When I got back to Texas nobody there had ever heard of it (which didn't surprise me since I was from Texas). I brought a case of it back since I was driving at the time, rather than flying. It was quite a novelty with the big heavy cans. Within about a year it was literally everywhere I looked. Vile stuff.....but no more vile than Dixie Beer which I swear must have been brewed using unfiltered swamp water from New Orleans. If you could survive drinking that stuff, you were immune to everything because no self respecting germ would want to live in your body.
