after 10 long years, i finally took the plunge and moved up to a pretty fast tower running xp, and retired my ME box...the sound card fit with a little mod at the bottom of the box and the transition went a lot smoother than expected...the only thing missing are the effects pre sets, which i used pretty faithfully for a good starting point....any way to get them back?

If you mean presets that you created and saved- yes, it is easy to get them back. All you need to do is open an old project where you used the preset. Then when you have the effect window open, you click the button to save the preset to your library. Then you can recall that preset in other projects in the future.

If you need more info, or screen shots, let me know.

Don' mean to hijack but I have been learning paris for a couple months now and just realized that I don't any reverbs listed in the eds insert section. I can pick delay compressors adn some otherthings but not reverb. What do I need to do? Am I missing a file? I am running Paris 3.0 with mikes xp drivers. please help. I love ensoniq reverbs!

I think the *.var files should just be in the main parispro directory.

Echo- did you install the new paris fx subsystem for XP?

hey phil..i re-installed paris, then re-installed the drivers and the only issue i'm having now is a compatability issue in the computer, so sometimes i have to close then re-open paris for it to recognize the mec..besides that...i'm back in business! thanks for all yer responses and advice.....

Thanks for replying. I do have a paris fx.var file. It has a few of the effects but not all of them especially reverb.

I tried installing a copy of paris fx for xp from somewhere on the net but maybe its outdated or doesnt work right with mikes drivers?

Any one have the file they can send me? If its an exe you need to change the "exe" of the file name to anything else like "parisfx.soda" so I can retrieve it.

Regards,
Chris

I tried installing the paris xp fx file I had and still getting the same thing. I checked the master mixer section and found out that I can pick the reverbs on the global master's inserts but thats it. But going back to auxes on each channel, it just says "no effect" And I click on it and I get nothing. I have aux set to on but what do I do? Clicking on the space where it says "no effect" does nothing. Is something disabled in a file???

Can anyone give me the proper file/s to install or place in my directories?

Never mind. I'm a noob I did not know you had to drag left to show the aux channel strips. Now it's all coming together.
