had appropriate hardware (ie. expansion chassis's etc) run as many as you like, subject to bandwidth limitations, but Paris was only built to run 8 cards, meaning 128 tracks.

Find me the dude who can pick more than 128 instruments playing simultaneously and I'll buy you a beer. ;o)

Cheers,
Kim.To make that clearer, Windows can definately run at LEAST 8 cards. I have never heard of a Windows "same card limit" other than simple bandwidth and interrupt limitations.

Cheers,
Kim.STOP IT!! I WANT ONE!!! ;o)"Kim" <

ey carry it down there.
Congrats on the raise! (TODAY is when they'll give you the news about the company car: "But Kimmers, how can you bitch about this, mate? After all, you just got a nice pay increase yesterday!")

:)The document reads, "All men are created equal." When those words were first put to paper, of course, the literal meaning of the phrase did not match what was written. A more accurate sentence would have read, "All white land-owning men are created equal," but despite the inherent racism and misogyny buried in the original meaning, the words had magic and power enough to lay the groundwork for 200 years of progress.

The words as written became the basis for reform after reform, for the strengthening of the rights of minorities, women, and basically anyone who would be made subservient to anyone else. The struggle took a long time, and continues today with much remaining to do before that equality is truly achieved, but the strength of those words as written has been proven time and again to be more than a match for anyone who would stand on the neck of a fellow citizen.

That's what the billboard reads, anyway. That's the pro se news outlets to filter out information that might be damaging to the parent company. Agriculture in America is controlled by a small group of corporations. One cannot drive a car, rent a van, buy a house or deliver goods in a business transaction without purchasing insurance from a corporation. Getting sick in America has become a ruinously expensive experience because corporations now control even the smallest functions of the medical profession, and have turned the practice of health care into a for-profit industry.

The influence these super-citizens hold over local, state and national politics is the reason why so many privileges ustry as supply outstrips demand, maybe we can become the new "wheat farmers" of the 21st century. We can claim that the overabundance of media producing methods is destroying our livelihood...we can continue to produce and use our equipment...even buy new equipment we'd "die without ;-)...but we can dump the product in the ash can...frankly, haven't you wanted to do that a couple times anyway...and have Uncle Sam cut us a check for our lack of productivity...maybe even let the studio lie "fallow" for a year (so the aura of fertility can return) and take a long trip to the Caribbean...might be worth pursuing!!!!

>I am a long time Paris user but I have never actually set up the MEC and software on a computer myself. Now I installed all the plugs and software. I know I have the updates drivers for XP. And the software runs fine. But when I open a project I get the "I/O will not work in this configuration of Paris" message. Now I get that message when the mec is powered off and the software boots. But in this case the mes is on and I see the lights flash as usual but I still get the message.

I have,

I tried different PCI slots. I have currently have the EDS in slot 2 and irq 9

So nothing yet. Can one of you seasoned gets please help me out.

Running on a Pentium III / 550 with 256MB Ram. (I know... give me some time to save some more money)

I also need an 8 in card....

Anyhow help would be appreciated!!!!

Spappydead on, monotheistic religion (if thats how it translates in english) of any kind is the bomb the world is sitting on.

at the same time, the supporters of said religions think that what they have to offer will help make things better.

"ah, the irony"...

personally i got no problem with faith. its when people
