Even when you know it's coming, it's very sad...

I first heard his stuff when the band I played with back in the '70's learned a bunch of tunes by Dreams. What a band! Major unhappiness...

I used to read liner notes like my dad read the newspaper over morning coffee -in my case OJ. I was most familiar with his work through my infatuation of Joni, and struggles to emulate JT. I picked up the tenor sax, briefly, in part because of him. And I recall singing along with his lines, like they were vocal parts. Sad sad news.

One of the finest to ever play the horn.

Play jazz with the angels Michael.

Hi folks,

Figured I should give you guys an update... After I signed up with the NMDP, I was found to be a match for a guy with Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia. I will be donating bone marrow for him next week, on December 17th, 2008.

I don't know who he is (and I may never know) but if you would all send your good thoughts his way, I think it would be a great thing...

Happy holidays!

Doug

Doug,

Now there's a donation you won't forget.
Man, that's a great thing to do for somebody Doug.

I'll be sending good vibes for both of you.

Very cool thing to do, Doug. My good thoughts are with you and him, but honestly, your good actions are worth about a million "good thoughts".
Bravo!
