Awesome stuff. Reminds me a lot of this guy - www.guthrietrapp.com - the KING of that style in my book. Caught him live on an off-night in DT n-ville a few months back. He did this stuff for 30 minutes non-stop and never played the same riff twice.

DJ,
Very nice indeed.
3 electric guitars yet no clutter. Who'd a figured?
Sweet.

Great link..What I love most about it is that thay are soloing just ona "CLEAN" settings on their perspective amps..No Distortion to "Hide Behind".. Just like in Jazz guitar playing, Swinging, Country blues picking is a "sink or swim" affair..

I love it. Always have since I heard Lester & Earl.

Though I was a big Eagles fan I never really used to pay that much attention to country music until I was surfing the radio channels sometime back in the early 90's and heard this instrumental just kicking butt. Turned out to be Vince Gill (Liza Jane). I still don't listen to nouveau Nashville country really at all, but I have come to love this kind of freeform pickin stuff. Like you said, it's sink or swim, like jazz improvization. One of my neighbors (and session players) is a guy named Gary Cook. He's in the same league with these guys (and knows them) and I've seen him do similar things to this on an acoustic guitar.

Bitchin' music!

Hey, I've got a new test for great music. If yer sittin' here lookin' at the computer, pissed off cuz yer teenager mouthed off to you again and hit her little sister too,(aforementioned teenager is out mowing the lawn right now heh heh) and you feel pretty dang good anyway, after the song goes by, then it's GREAT music.

This one passed with perfect A's.
