.....and I'd say that there's a bit more the "just a little" tacit censorship with iTunes. Have you ever gone to their online radio section. I6t's chock full o' liberal leaning stations you can hear, but the only station that they feature there that would balance this in any way is Fox News. It seems that if they are going to feature Air America, they should also include something like Rush Limbaugh, Laura Ingraham, etc. Definitely a left leaning political slant to their default playlist.

I'm only discussing audio here, not politics, OK Kim. ;^)

Suppose you crank 30hz on a graphic EQ and pull down ALL other frequencies. Does that sound good?

Nope. Pretty annoying

Now crank 20,000 hz. Did that fix it?

Nope. Annoying and scratchy.

Lack of middle frequencies produces a terrible mix.

The idea that we need more liars on one extreme to balance liars on another extreme is crazy. IMO.

We need to locate and raise the middle frequencies if we want a full sounding, complete mix.

Cheers,

PS. You could pull 30hz and 20khz completely out of the mix and it would still sound decent.

Have you ever received a project to mix that was tracked with hi/lowpass filters engaged on every track? I have and inevitably there is some information there that has been lost that may be critical to making the mix. IMO, intelligent use of filters to achieve a wholistic and comprehensive result is preferable to not having as much missing info to work with as possible, even if much of it is rumble or hiss.

No way. Those Pr Right-Winged PR talking points puppets need to to on iTunes radio.

Let that "Fly-Over State" network named Fox remain that stupid, Greta Van, what "Rosie Said today, new leads on Natalie Holloway case, new Memo from Bill O. All the way to Bush's main talking head Hannity..to that drug addict Rush Limbaug , stay where they are.

No,they need Bill Maher is the fairest of all the talking heads.

You're right, I don't generally track with filters on unless there's a significant problem, such as excessive noise on location from a highly windy source.

In a mix I only add filtering after due consideration of the entire spectrum.

I sometimes wonder about engineers who rely on highly filtered sources and assume there's any fidelity there. I hear way too much mud in their politics, er, mixes.
