The normal height of a single rack space is 1.75". I need a couple of them that are 1/2 height (or 0.875")

Google shows nothing. Anyone know if these are available somewhere? I'm getting ready to go find a sheet metal source otherwise. Sheet metal sources are kinda' rare around here (and my time is even rarer) so I thought I'd ask first.

Thanks,

Deej

Sorry DJ, I did not read your post completely.

You could call Mid-Atlantic to see if they will make you a custome size..

I thought I saw some at the local G.C. or maybe it was another place around here recently - if you can wait 'til the weekend I'll be happy to check for you.

Wait?????.....you know damn good and well what will happen if I have to wait!!!.....

;o)

....errrr.well.....OK.....I'll wait. I think it would be a frickin' miricle to find something like this. In the meantime, I'm gonna start gnawin on one.

You'll have to quit out of frustration & sell me all your high-end gear at 10 cents on the dollar?

I'll give you 11-1/2 cents. That cheap-ass Neil is no good, and doesn't deserve your equipment.

DJ I don't think you have to worry about it. Nobody is going to think less of you for having half spaces between your gear (whole spaces without covers are a completely different matter, IMHO). It just means you are husbanding your gear well.
