I would like to rule out flakey scherzo drivers from my computer = dilemma.

If anyone has them to email to me that would be great!

Thanks,

Tom

I'm looking into the Creamware A-16 add on for my Cubase rig...

Do you need a Creamware Card to go with it? If so, I have a Project Card (w/6 DSP Chips) and a Sync Plate that I'm not using. It's the connector version with balanced analog i/o's.

Hey Neil,

I've got a Scope 14 chip Pro Classic card already. Thanks for the = offer.

I'll need a Sync Plate to use my Lucid. Of course my Lucid only goes to = 48k...

Forget that then.

Is the internal Creamware clock worthy? I don't have anything else to = clock with if I dump Paris. But I might sum there at 44.1 . . . Oh brother.

I'm getting way ahead of myself.

Tomorrow night is fix Paris night with my tech at his place.
