While we all have certain sets of paid-for plugins that we are a good amount of freeware tools, as well. Below is a list of freebie vst plugins that I have found to be most useful.

eliminated from the list because they were crap, and some because they were poorly written (i.e: caused lockups, crashing, glitches, etc.) or were too damn CPU-intensive on ANY setting to be useful or practical. These are certainly also not a lot of wild, bizarre ones that I suppose some of you doing certain styles of music would find useful (like maybe electronica or things in that vein), but are not really useful

a.) highly useable, with user-friendly interfaces & controls b.) sound damn good, or at least sound damn good for a specific purpose or two, and...

undue CPU power for no good reason we all have different ears, but in any event I can guarantee classification/category. ALL direct download links are for the Windows vst versions (and specifically XP or later versions, why I also supplied the product pages where applicable.

Off we go!

Comps/Limiters/Other Dynamics:

BuzMaxi:

Pretty damn good transparent brickwall limiter/volume your 2-buss, baby! This is version 3 of BuzMaxi; if you can find a copy of version 2 somewhere, I actually like that one a

GeneComp & GranComp:

Also from x-buz; GeneComp is a linear compressor, GranComp is a harder-knee compressor. Both come in singleband & multiband versions. I find that the presets are also pretty useful as a starting point for various stuff. Try out GranComp on Kik, Snare, Rock guitars & bass. Try the multiband GranComp on kick & set each band real hard & then duck down the level on the (experiment with the band split frequencies to find what works to EQ the kick at all! Grancomp is literally my most-used compressor now on individual tracks. Do it! lol

BrainDoc Compressor:

especially great on kik, snare & toms (on toms & kick will get in there.

Ruby Tube:

A somewhat hard-nosed limiter that can also introduce some tube-on what you like. Seems better on low-end-ish stuff overall.

DigitalFishPhones Spitfish:

The VERY BEST stand-alone plugin de-esser available, IMO unit with other features). The product page & download links some other plugins, as well. Toss the other ones,

Delays/Reverbs:

Classic Delay:

Can be set to tempo sync, or manual; has analog emulations, and a really clean/pronounced digital delay sound. Good one!

capabilities as well. A very rich / lush delay sound.

PSP PianoVerb:

A pretty good-sounding, artifact-heavy (but in a good way)

BESIDES piano that it sounds good on, but it does sound really good on that sometimes!

Gvst GDelay:

Need a very simple, highly controllable mono delay? This is it. This one definitely seems to have some artifacts going on, so stuff.

RoomMachine 844:

in a submix (like for a drum submix wherein you want to place the drums in a room) or as a send-return-type of effect using fully-wet settings on the output. Controls are very useful, and control (distance from the source to the simulated mics), and a stereo spread selector on each side (L&R) independently.

Voxengo EssEQ:

The EQ segment of vst plugins is really lacking in useful, high-definitely useable if you: a.) run out of EQ bands for something & you still need a little tweak somewhere, or b.)

end band on this is actually pretty nice for that!

Other:

BrainDoc Channel Tool:

This is a very simple tool that basically allows you to set levels/phase/etc on a single channel. Handy if you've got something that you've automated volume on, and it's a little hot or a little soft overall, but you don't want to rewrite all the automation moves; OR if you're in a Native app & you've got that overstuffed mix buss thing happening - just insert this on all your audio tracks & bring all of 'em down by the same degree (like we discussed in another thread):

Product Page: <http://www.braindoc.de/english/vstEn.html>

Gvst GFader:

An even simpler version (level ONLY) of the Braindoc-type tool without having to rewrite automation moves:

Download: <http://www.gvst.co.uk/dlgvst/GFader.zip>

Voxengo Audio Delay:

OK, this is NOT a delay chain effect, it allows you to delay the sound by a fixed number of milliseconds or sub-increments thereof. I found this useful when tracking a kit of e-pads & for the e-pads, so I sent those to an aux buss, inserted this on that submix, and delayed the audio by like 3-4 milliseconds direct mics), and the blend of the two worked out great!

Probably you could find some other uses for it as well.

Voxengo SPAN:

will suck down a lot of your available cycles.

a plugin. Can also do batch conversions!

Simulanalog G-Suite:

A guitar processing pack that has some emulations of Marshall &

this as a primary guitar track thang, but I found it useful
