Does the US have anyone that really excels in diplomacy? Henry Kissinger always seemed to be amazing to me and I'm wondering who now days does effective diplomacy.

Do you believe that countries like Iran, Syria and North Korea are beyond diplomacy? I always look for diplomatic solutions but I think the US government has totally stopped any real diplomacy. Yes, No ? Didn't we wait a good week for Israel to blow up Pakestan last month until we Condi wandered over to the UN and said "hey, you think it's time to reduce the kill rate to show we care?".
