
Subject: OT: Home Speaker System
Posted by Sanbar on Fri, 29 Jun 2007 01:11:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi

I'm wondering if anyone has some ideas for an inexpensive yet passable home speaker setup. I'm in the process of building a house and thought this might be useful. I'm probably going to try and have four separate stations. I'm looking for wall speakers, amp, etc. I don't want to break the bank at all. I'm just looking to get something that just barely passes the quality inspection.

Barry

Subject: Re: OT: Home Speaker System
Posted by JeffH on Fri, 29 Jun 2007 01:18:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sanbar,

hififorless.com

I bought the audiosource (don't laugh). They work fine for casual listening.

Jeff

wrote:
> Hi
>
> I'm wondering if anyone has some ideas for an inexpensive yet passable home > speaker setup. I'm in the process of building a house and thought this might > be useful. I'm probably going to try and have four separate stations. I'm > looking for wall speakers, amp, etc. I don't want to break the bank at all.
> I'm just looking to get something that just barely passes the quality > inspection.
>
> Barry
>
>

Subject: Re: OT: Home Speaker System
Posted by Sanbar on Fri, 29 Jun 2007 01:46:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

"Jeff Hoover" <jkhoover@excite.com> wrote in message
news:46845f65$1@linux...

> Sanbar,

>

> hififorless.com

>

> I boughtthe audiosource (don't laugh). They work fine for casual > listening.

>

> Jeff

'

You've definitely got my price point down. How would you describe the sound you get.

Subject: Re: OT: Home Speaker System

Posted by Bill L on Fri, 29 Jun 2007 02:05:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

You might just go onto ebay and buy some older studio monitors. I use my old monitors all around the house - Peaveys (don't laugh, these are actually pretty darn nice), Tannoy PBM8s, Smithlines.

Sanbar wrote:

> "Jeff Hoover" <jkhoover@excite.com> wrote in message

> news:46845f65$1@linux...

>> Sanbar,

>>

>> hififorless.com

>>

>> I boughtthe audiosource (don't laugh). They work fine for casual >> listening.

>>

>> Jeff

> '

> You've definitely got my price point down. How would you describe the sound > you get.

>

>

Subject: Re: OT: Home Speaker System

Posted by Paul Artola on Fri, 29 Jun 2007 02:31:03 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

When putting together my home theater, I decided to try a brand sold on the internet called Fluance. I bought their surrounds and center channel, and am very happy with these. Check out www.fluance.com for the details.

My main speakers in my two stereos, however, are vintage a/d/s models. I have a pair of L1230 speakers in one setup, and a pair of L1290s in the other. These show up in the ebay/audiogon world no and then for anywhere from $400-1000. To me, they are pretty awesome.

Finally, my current computer speakers (for my general purpose machine, not the DAW) are a pair of NHT A20s. The rock some serious booty, and I got them for a great price, but they are tough to find.

I think DeeJ will echo my sentiments on the a/d/s and NHTs.

- Paul Artola
Ellicott City, Maryland

On Thu, 28 Jun 2007 20:11:58 -0500, "Sanbar" <sanbar@wi.rr.com> wrote:

>Hi

>

>I'm wondering if anyone has some ideas for an inexpensive yet passable home
>speaker setup. I'm in the process of building a house and thought this might >be useful. I'm probably going to try and have four separate stations. I'm >looking for wall speakers, amp, etc. I don't want to break the bank at all.
>I'm just looking to get something that just barely passes the quality >inspection.

>

>Barry

>

Subject: Re: OT: Home Speaker System
Posted by Sanbar on Fri, 29 Jun 2007 02:36:32 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

My buddy pointed me to the nuvo system. Does anyone know anything about this.

<http://www.nuvotechnologies.com/simplese.htm>

"Paul Artola" <artola@comcast.net> wrote in message news:r8r883d9ttv0bu889vgsctiovkaq87n3dg@4ax.com...

> When putting together my home theater, I decided to try a brand sold > on the internet called Fluance. I bought their surrounds and center > channel, and am very happy with these. Check out www.fluance.com for > the details.

>

> My main speakers in my two stereos, however, are vintage a/d/s models.
> I have a pair of L1230 speakers in one setup, and a pair of L1290s in > the other. These show up in the ebay/audiogon world no and then for > anywhere from $400-1000. To me, they are pretty awesome.
>
> Finally, my current computer speakers (for my general purpose machine, > not the DAW) are a pair of NHT A20s. The rock some serious booty, and > I got them for a great price, but they are tough to find.
>
> I think Deej will echo my sentiments on the a/d/s and NHTs.
>
> - Paul Artola
> Ellicott City, Maryland
>
> On Thu, 28 Jun 2007 20:11:58 -0500, "Sanbar" <sanbar@wi.rr.com> wrote:
>
>>Hi
>>
>>I'm wondering if anyone has some ideas for an inexpensive yet passable >>home >>speaker setup. I'm in the process of building a house and thought this >>might >>be useful. I'm probably going to try and have four separate stations. I'm >>looking for wall speakers, amp, etc. I don't want to break the bank at >>all.
>>I'm just looking to get something that just barely passes the quality >>inspection.
>>
>>Barry
>>
>

Subject: Re: OT: Home Speaker System
Posted by TCB on Fri, 29 Jun 2007 03:00:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm a big fan of Paradigm speakers for the sensibly priced hi fi crew.

<http://www.paradigm.com/>

Big time bang for the buck, and they do in wall speakers as well if you're building from scratch.

TCB

"Sanbar" <sanbar@wi.rr.com> wrote:
>Hi

>
>I'm wondering if anyone has some ideas for an inexpensive yet passable home
>speaker setup. I'm in the process of building a house and thought this might >be useful. I'm probably going to try and have four separate stations. I'm >looking for wall speakers, amp, etc. I don't want to break the bank at all.
>I'm just looking to get something that just barely passes the quality >inspection.
>
>Barry
>
>

Subject: Re: OT: Home Speaker System
Posted by JeffH on Fri, 29 Jun 2007 03:11:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sanbar,

Price performance pretty good. Mids and highs definitely stronger than Lows, but I haven't added a sub yet (once again casual listening).

JH

wrote:
> "Jeff Hoover" <jkhoover@excite.com> wrote in message
> news:46845f65$1@linux...
>
>>Sanbar,
>>
>>hififorless.com
>>
>>I boughtthe audiosource (don't laugh). They work fine for casual >>listening.
>>
>>Jeff
>
> '
> You've definitely got my price point down. How would you describe the sound > you get.
>
>

Subject: Re: OT: Home Speaker System
Posted by Bill L on Fri, 29 Jun 2007 23:03:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you're going soffit-mounted, I recommend a pair of used UREI 813s.
That's living, Baby!

PS make sure your wife knows she has to match the aqua-colored horn with an aqua lava lamp, to really pull off the look.

TCB wrote:

> I'm a big fan of Paradigm speakers for the sensibly priced hi fi crew.

>

> <http://www.paradigm.com/>

>

> Big time bang for the buck, and they do in wall speakers as well if you're > building from scratch.

>

> TCB

>

> "Sanbar" <sanbar@wi.rr.com> wrote:

>> Hi

>>

>> I'm wondering if anyone has some ideas for an inexpensive yet passable home

>

>> speaker setup. I'm in the process of building a house and thought this might >> be useful. I'm probably going to try and have four separate stations. I'm

>

>

>> looking for wall speakers, amp, etc. I don't want to break the bank at all.

>

>> I'm just looking to get something that just barely passes the quality >> inspection.

>>

>> Barry

>>

>>

>