
Subject: Finally found a use for the POD
Posted by DJ on Fri, 24 Nov 2006 05:03:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've had a POD XT Pro sitting in my rack for a couple of years. Sometimes I sit and look at it and wonder why I bought it and if I will ever use it for anything other than the occasional dry track split off from my real amp. I've always kept a digital routing option open for it but it is probably used less than any other device here and so thoughts of selling it off have been occurring. Well, I've got a mix here with a B3 and the XTPro has now found it's place in the studio. I've got it strapped across the inserts on the B# tracks and this thing may be the perfect B3 mixdown processor as far as providing some extra attitude.

;o)

Subject: Re: Finally found a use for the POD
Posted by [neil\[1\]](#) on Fri, 24 Nov 2006 16:22:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That's a pretty cool idea... maybe you could even use it for re-amping stuff (have you tried THAT on the B3 yet with the POD?).

Neil

"DJ" <nowayjose@dude.net> wrote:

>I've had a POD XT Pro sitting in my rack for a couple of years. Sometimes
>I >sit and look at it and wonder why I bought it and if I will ever use it >for >anything other than the occasional dry track split off from my real amp.
>I've always kept a digital routing option open for it but it is probably >used less than any other device here and so thoughts of selling it off have >been occurring. Well, I've got a mix here with a B3 and the XTPro has now >found it's place in the studio. I've got it strapped across the inserts >on >the B# tracks and this thing may be the perfect B3 mixdown processor as >far >as providing some extra attitude.
>
>;o)
>
>
>
