I'm dropping some bucks on analog stuff to record my band. I'm going to get a couple of cheaper things (RNP/RNC combos and such) but was thinking of one of these. It seems to fit nicely for what I want feature wise. Simple opto dynamics, two bands of shelf EQ, and a pretty good pre. It could be linked for overheads and room mics or split for individual instruments. And it even will work as a DI for bass and guitars.

It's coming down to this or a Portico dual pre and dual compressor combo. That's nearly twice the scratch, which isn't impossible, but if anyone has thoughts I'd be interested.

Thanks,

TCB
