OK then...scroll down until you see "Download for Free"

This takes you to another page.Scroll down until you see "click here for download"

Guess I may subscribe to the premium service so everything happen on one page.

This was a fun demo. 11 mics set up in the living room of my old place with the band strung out in a line just like a stage recording. Bleed all over everything and this bunch of guys saying wierd things to each other like "play somethin' lonesome". This was my first experience recording a bluegrass bandbut certainly not the last.

Hehehe!!!!....thanks. Here's a link to the first song they played for a warmup.

<http://www.filefactory.com/file/b8da61/>

They were drifting all over the place during this song and wanted me to trash it. I,OTOH,,once I picked my jaw up off the ground, decided to talk them into keeping it and it was eventually included on the demo CD. This was a fun experience. They didn't have any money and I didn't have any experience with sessions like this so we eventually all got something positive out of the deal.

.....and here's the song they did right after that.
<http://www.filefactory.com/file/a10847>
I was picking my jaw up off the floor a lot that night. These guys called themselves the Broke Mountain Bluegrass Band. Very young guys-early 20's and extremely talented. They took this demo and it opened some doors on the festival circuit. You can Google them these days and get quite a lot of info. I'm glad they're doing well, though they have all scattered to other bands now. This demo got their toe in the door and they won the best band award at the Rockygrass Bluegrass festival in Lyons CO later that summer.

I wish I had taken more time with this session and known a little more about WTF I was doing, but it is what it is and it got the job done for them.

Good stuff DJ, I get to do a little Bluegrass around here as well from time to time but there is a different twist to it, its in French. Did this one back in 01 I believe, guy by the name of Paul Hebert.

Thanks Robert. I like your clip as well. I checked out your studio website.
Nice setup.
