I actually have a beer fridge with a glass door and all, which has a selection of 12 beers, from all over the place, at all times, and I try and rotate which beers are in the fridge each month when I do my beer shopping. :o)

So I was thinking that surely some of you have some great beer suggestions for me. The difficult part is of course that boutique beers from north america can be pretty hard to find down here in Australia. Our range of European beers is getting better, especially if you shop in the right places, but there's not that much from the U.S.

But if you have favourite beer, give it a shot,I'd love to know what it is. I'll see if I can't find some of them and give them a go. :o)

I mean you guys must know something about beer. ;o)

Subject: OT: Beer Suggestions :o)

Now, some of you may have picked up that I enjoy the odd beer. :o)

I actually have a beer fridge with a glass door and all, which has a selection of 12 beers, from all over the place, at all times, and I try and rotate which beers are in the fridge each month when I do my beer shopping. :o)

So I was thinking that surely some of you have some great beer suggestions for me. The difficult part is of course that boutique beers from north america can be pretty hard to find down here in Australia. Our range of European beers is getting better, especially if you shop in the right places, but there's not that much from the U.S.

But if you have favourite beer, give it a shot, I'd love to know what it is. I'll see if I can't find some of them and give them a go. :o)

I mean you guys must know something about beer. ;o)

Cheers,

Kim.

Stay far, far away from Sam Adams.. yuk! I can't say I recommend any domestics from USA, but I don't drink much.. I will say that SA is about the most awful thing next to maybe dog pee, though I haven't had the displeasure of urine. I imagine SA is much like it though.
Heheh..

Ah, I remember that one. I had some when I was over there back in 99 or whenever it was. Didn't enjoy it much, though my beer taste has expanded since then. As I recall it was like "the third beer". There was Bud, Miller, and Sam Adams, which was for those who like something a bit "different"... but it seemed to be all the wrong kinds of different. ;o)

I might buy just one stubbie of it though to try and to see if I still dislike it so much. ;o) I should buy one Bud as well actually as I haven't had that either for about a decade. Just to refresh the memory.

I mean if I want to be a man who knows his beer I should be familiar with what people are drinking, even the beers I don't like. :o)

Cheers,
Kim.

Odell's 90 Shilling.

BTW, deja vu. I think we did this last year.

Nice fridge.

Mmm, does ring a bell, but can't find it in a search.

I'm pretty happy with that. I mate of mine "aquired" it for me after it was left behind at a trade show of some kind. It's one of my favourite things I own...

Wow, Sam Adams and AnchorSteam, are the only US beers that I find drinkable.
The rest are, to me, like drinking ps, (my personal opinion of course...no offence).

Very nice fridge. Looks tasty.

Bourbon and beer here in the South.

I'm a Miller High Life Man. Hundred-year-old recipe. Light American pilsner, but the thickest of the original bunch. Everybody else changed their recipe several times over the century, but not the High Life, beeatch. Tried and true.

Can't beat it, you ask me. Tastes like crispy, caramelly water. With a buzz.

Budweiser sux.

Sam Adams sux.

Everything else is up for discussion.

If you're doing Bud, go Bud dry if you can get it. Much, much better than the other ones IMO.

No offense taken. We have a fair amount of watery mixturation masquerading as beer, here.

For example steer clear of Budweiser. There's some kind of chemical preservative in it that has no business in a beer.

But the local microbrews are good. In Colorado we have Odell's, New Belgium Brewery, Breckenridge Brewery, a few others. Recommended.

Cheers,

Kim,
I'm not a Sam lover either but the two that pass the test are Winter Lager and Cherry Wheat (if you like that fruity thing).
Brazilian Xingu is a black beer that is like eating a loaf of bread.
Hard to find and I think the recipe has changed for the worse=20 since the early 90s when I drank it more frequently. It makes=20
Guinness seem light.

I like mostly anything from GIB:

<http://www.gib.ca>

I used to frequent the place when I lived there before moving to Alberta. It's tough to get the next province over, let alone across the other side of the planet! ;-)

The Black Pil from here is also really good:

<http://www.brewbrothers.com/>

Cheers! ;-)

David.

Not a great "Canadian beer" fan we like Becks, Corona, Rickards Red, Witches Brew, Hobbogoblin, Fiddlers something-or-other, Paddington Creme, Lakeport Honey, Lakeport Lager...and several micro brewery beers, depending on what tickles our fancy when we hit the Beer Store or LCBO (Liquor Control Board of Ontario)

Used to be a big fan of Carling Black Label (before they changed the recipe)

and Upper Canada Publican (before the discontinued it) ...great throat ripping beers when ice cold

If you haven't tried Sam Smith, it's the best brewery in the world, IMO.
Everything they make is perfect.

Can't beat Boddington's, Newcastle, Speckled Hen, and Bass, either. Love me some English beer.

German and Czech, too.

Most people here are recommending British ales and US microbrews that knock off British ales. Other than the odd ice cold Newcastle (super dark malty tasting, almost no hops) and once in a while a Guinness, I _vastly_ prefer really good German/Czech style lagers to British ales. A lot of the 'imported' German beers in the US are actually made in Poughkeepsie and have German labels on them. The same might be true in Australia, I'm not sure. Stateside the best actual German from Germany import I've tasted is Weinstephaner. My favorite beer when I was in Austria was Hacker-Pschorr, one of the five famous Munich beer labels. Unfortunately the US version of it doesn't taste nearly as good, though I think it is brewed in Germany and imported. Maybe they just send us the bad kegs. For Czech lagers Pilsner Urquell is very good (though again not as good as it was in Czech Republic) as is Budweiser Budvar not to be confused with American Budweiser. In the US the Czech company finally settled with US Budweiser for stealing their name and now market their beer as Czechvar. The finest macro beer (and one of the finest including micros) I have ever had in my life was a Budvar on tap in a bar where my band played in Prague. The imported version is about as good as the bottled ones I had in Vienna.

Another one to try from Central Europe is Schneider Weiss beers. They make both a dark and light hefe weizen lager (dunkel and klar, respectively) that is different than what you might expect. The dark one in particular I think is interesting because so few lagers are dark, and of those that are almost none are hefe weizens.

Kim,

I'm lucky to live in the microbrew capital of the world - Portland, Oregon.
I can walk down almost any street and find a great local ale.

However, I highly recommend the following brews, which are in fairly wide distribution:

1. Lagunitas Maximus
2. Lagunitas IPA
3. Stone Brewing Ruination IPA
4. Hop Rod Rye

Let me know if you ever plan a visit to Portland and we'll go on one hell of a great pub crawl!

I don't drink beer often, but when I do, it's usually either Widmer Brothers' "Drop Top Amber Ale," or Deschutes Brewery's "Black Butte Porter." These are both local Oregon breweries. There are reviews of these beers online. Black Butte Porter is kinda like Guinness Stout, but without the ear wax taste. (Oh, don't pretend you don't know what ear wax tastes like.)

Actually, Black Butte is reminiscent of something we used to drink back in the 70's called Tooth's Sheaf Stout (say that 10 times fast), which you may have heard of.

Hope this helps. :)

I don't drink much any more, but when I did I found Grolsch (Dutch) to be the finest beer in the world.

I also like Heiny, Becks, St Pauli Girl and at the right time of year there is a Carlsberg - I think it's called Elephant - that is very, very, very strong, and especially good if you like falling down a lot.

As for American beers, I just don't like 'em, but if i had to pick one it would be Miller. I tend to prefer sweeter beers.

A good Norwegian beer is Ringnes, but i doubt you will find that down under.

Another interesting dutch beer is Orangeboom, but it's gotta be fresh. Same for all of them I guess.

The only dark I ever liked is Newcastle Brown. You can surely find that in Oz.

Skol!

As this is a beer topic I wanted to tell you a little horror story...when I was touring out in Eastern Canada we had the pleasure of drinking many local brews and some were amazing (James Reddy comes to mind) but for ease of purchase we all decided on Moosehead EX (export).

Now imagine my surprise when touring out west I see Moosehead Ex at the local beer store. Well not to let a good opportunity pass I bought a 24 and we proceeded to head back home to Ottawa.

Now let me clarify something. This band drank beer. But after the first taste was had, the whole band screamed bloody murder and threatened to throw me off the bus...and I was driving it at the time.

So I had a swig and damn if it wasn't the pissiest (sp?) tasting pile of shit I ever tasted (and I've toured in the US so I know all about pissy tasting beer)

Needless to say, the beer was put back in it's case and our regular brew (Carling Black Label) was brought out. Fortunately we hit North Bay, Ontario right about the time the beer stores opened and we waltzed in, exchanged our Moosehead for another case of Black, and went on our merry way.

Tooth's Cheaf Stout is a long gone Aussie beer, Sarah

You should have one in Pilzn, the otherwise unremarkable Czech town that lends its name. Freaking unbelievable.

Having put in a bit of research in Europe on the subject, I found the best combination of quality beer and proper temperature in Germany. Not the too-warm English way or the too cold USA obsession.

However I will put Colorado's 90 Shilling up against any other beer from anywhere in the world. And I will be the judge. ;^)

Well-spoken.

I would guess you were still drinking in 1988?

Your first four favorites there were so central a part of that first wave of imported beers in the mid-to-late-'80s. I was but a mere teen, but for me, those beers were a sweet and iconic part of an otherwise difficult coming-of-age. I had a rich friend whose father was friends with a distributor. They had a refrigerator in the basement, next to the small wine cellar, and it was stocked with those beers. And don't forget Moosehead. There was always Moosehead in that fridge.

Well, it was fun, and sorta classy, for a farm boy. Fish outa water, or pig in slop, or maybe both, according to how you looked at it....

Rich girls were oddly attracted to expensive imported beers, back in the day....

Well it's a wheat beer, so that makes sense, and the Pyramid is the best I have had.

They are here.

<http://www.pyramidbrew.com/home.php>

When I was up there, a lot of places had it on tap.

yum

Never saw it served with Lemon. Only some of the hefe weizens come with lemon in the old country, and then usually only the lightest ones.
