a little while ago i posted a message asking for advice about mobile laptop recording solutions and got some really good responses. i then went off and took care of other things (big cross-country move and start of a tour in april). anyway, i came back to day to find the post and it's a little too far back now, but i wanted to say thank you to everybody who responded. it was a big help. i'm still not sure what i'm doing yet but it gave me a lot to think about.

so thank you again and i'm happy this forum is still running strong. i don't come here often enough, but i'm thinking i will start visiting more again soon once my life is underway again.
