
Subject: Google Earth

Posted by [Deej \[4\]](#) on Sun, 03 Jun 2007 20:54:50 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have been building an electric fence this weekend that starts in the vicinity of the garden and runs to the SWC, then over to the SEC, then up to the NWC of the property. Most of our house is shaded by one of the biggest cottonwood trees I've ever seen. The little white blob that sits to the right of the push pin that denotes the driveway is our horse trailer that is sitting in the drive in front of the house. Most of the open area between the corner pins is horse playground. The big blue rectangle below the SWC pin is the thermally heated olympic sized pool at Trimble Hot Springs across the road. To the right of the pin that denotes the Durango Silverton RR Track is an area that is being prepped for a small shopping mall. This program is pretty amazing. I wonder how often it is updated. It did not look like this last week so I guess google earth is updated pretty frequently.

I wish I knew when the satellite overflew us. I'd put on a big yellow chicken suit and go outside and wave at y'all.

;o)

File Attachments

1) GoogleEarth_Image.jpg, downloaded 57 times

NWC

driveway

giant cottonwood

garden

SWC

SEC