I've actually been thinking more about this. I'm pretty sure I saw a "hints" option in one of the ASIO specs. I'll have to re-read it (one of the problems of having to stop and start on this so often). If the app will tell the driver that a channel is starting to record, I can switch which stream is active.

If I can't do this, there will be an option in the control panel to divide up the streams however you want.

All the best,

Mike
