

---

Subject: VH-1 Rock Honors... OK, I'm impressed
Posted by Paul Braun on Fri, 25 May 2007 01:39:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Right now, they're into the Heart section of the show.

The tribute is being done by two artists I don't like at all on their own - Alice In Chains and Gretchen Wilson. Yes, "Redneck Woman" Gretchen Wilson.

They're doing "Barracuda".

First off, the band is just plain kicking ass on this song, which kicks major ass in its own right. For right now, I'll suspend my dislike of them and give them kudos for this.

And the thing that's blowing my freakin' mind is that Gretchen Wilson, minus the corny Nashville lyrics and countrified twang, is absolutely NAILING Ann's part. Nailing. As in just wailing. Where the hell is that voice coming from? Sadly, she'll go back to the over-safetyfied world of Nashville, strap on the twang, an' start sangin' crap agin'. Ah'm tellin' ya, give the girl some rockin' tunes an' a real live jin-you-wine rock band, an' Ah mebbe jes' may become a fan.

Glad Ah'm Tivo'ing this, so I can watch it again.....

pab

---

---

Subject: Re: VH-1 Rock Honors... OK, I'm impressed
Posted by Paul Braun on Fri, 25 May 2007 01:49:40 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

On Thu, 24 May 2007 20:39:45 -0500, Paul Braun
<cygnus_nospam@ctgonline.org> wrote:

>Right now, they're into the Heart section of the show.

>

>The tribute is being done by two artists I don't like at all on their >own - Alice In Chains and Gretchen Wilson. Yes, "Redneck Woman" >Gretchen Wilson.

>

>They're doing "Barracuda".

>

>First off, the band is just plain kicking ass on this song, which >kicks major ass in its own right. For right now, I'll suspend my >dislike of them and give them kudos for this.

>

>And the thing that's blowing my freakin' mind is that Gretchen Wilson, >minus the corny Nashville lyrics and countrified twang, is absolutely >NAILING Ann's part. Nailing. As in just wailing. Where the hell is >that voice coming from? Sadly, she'll go back to the over-safetyfied >world of Nashville, strap on the twang, an' start sangin' crap agin'.
>Ah'm tellin' ya, give the girl some rockin' tunes an' a real live >jin-you-wine rock band, an' Ah mebbe jes' may become a fan.
>

And then Ann comes out and proves that she is still one of the best vocalists in rock history.....

Damn. Girl still has it. 100% still has it.

pab

---

Subject: Re: VH-1 Rock Honors... OK, I'm impressed
Posted by [Deej \[4\]](#) on Fri, 25 May 2007 02:07:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Unfortunately, it's "chick flick" night here and some Sandra Bullock kind' thing has captured the TV. Oh well.....I'm cleaning up the studio tonight anyway. It's amazing how much crap accumulates on the floor and various surfaces.

;o)

"Paul Braun" <cygnus_nospam@ctgonline.org> wrote in message news:24gc53ljubufjs40tsjtrvol8gubnf3ro0@4ax.com...

> On Thu, 24 May 2007 20:39:45 -0500, Paul Braun

> <cygnus_nospam@ctgonline.org> wrote:

>

>>Right now, they're into the Heart section of the show.

>>

>>The tribute is being done by two artists I don't like at all on their >>own - Alice In Chains and Gretchen Wilson. Yes, "Redneck Woman" >>Gretchen Wilson.

>>

>>They're doing "Barracuda".

>>

>>First off, the band is just plain kicking ass on this song, which >>kicks major ass in its own right. For right now, I'll suspend my >>dislike of them and give them kudos for this.

>>

>>And the thing that's blowing my freakin' mind is that Gretchen Wilson, >>minus the corny Nashville lyrics and countrified twang, is absolutely >>NAILING Ann's part. Nailing. As in just wailing. Where the hell is >>that voice coming from? Sadly, she'll go back to the over-safetyfied >>world of Nashville, strap on the twang, an' start sangin' crap agin'.

>>Ah'm tellin' ya, give the girl some rockin' tunes an' a real live >>jin-you-wine rock band, an' Ah mebbe jes' may become a fan.
>>
>
> And then Ann comes out and proves that she is still one of the best > vocalists in rock history.....
>
> Damn. Girl still has it. 100% still has it.
>
> pab

---

---

Subject: Re: VH-1 Rock Honors... OK, I'm impressed
Posted by Rod Lincoln on Fri, 25 May 2007 04:03:59 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Man your sooooo right. It's funny, I was watching this, and thought, this is so good, I need to tell someone, then I got distracted and didn't. I agree though AIC rocked it, and Gretchen Wilson was spectacular. wow. Then, as you said, Ann came out and kicked it. The only drawback is, imo, is the current Heart road band is just OK, other than the Wilson Sisters. They kind of paled in comparason to AIC. (I'm no AIC fan either, but they sure nailed it).
Rod
Paul Braun <cygnus_nospam@ctgonline.org> wrote:
>Right now, they're into the Heart section of the show.
>
>The tribute is being done by two artists I don't like at all on their own - Alice In Chains and Gretchen Wilson. Yes, "Redneck Woman"
>Gretchen Wilson.
>
>They're doing "Barracuda".
>
>First off, the band is just plain kicking ass on this song, which kicks major ass in its own right. For right now, I'll suspend my dislike of them and give them kudos for this.
>
>And the thing that's blowing my freakin' mind is that Gretchen Wilson, minus the corny Nashville lyrics and countrified twang, is absolutely NAILING Ann's part. Nailing. As in just wailing. Where the hell is that voice coming from? Sadly, she'll go back to the over-safetyfied world of Nashville, strap on the twang, an' start sangin' crap agin'. Ah'm tellin' ya, give the girl some rockin' tunes an' a real live jin-you-wine rock band, an' Ah mebbe jes' may become a fan.
>
>Glad Ah'm Tivo'ing this, so I can watch it again.....

>
>pab

---

---

Subject: Re: VH-1 Rock Honors... OK, I'm impressed
Posted by [Rich\[3\]](#) on Fri, 25 May 2007 14:03:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

"AIC rocked it, and Gretchen Wilson was spectacular"

I thought the same thing wow - still looking for my socks :)

Never would have guessed they could pull that off

"Rod Lincoln" <rlincoln@nospam.kc.rr.com> wrote:

>
>Man your sooooo right. It's funny, I was watching this, and thought, this >is so good, I need to tell someone, then I got distracted and didn't. I agree
>though AIC rocked it, and Gretchen Wilson was spectacular. wow.
>Then, as you said, Ann came out and kicked it.
>The only drawback is, imo, is the current Heart road band is just OK, other >that the Wilson Sisters. They kind of paled in comparason to AIC. (I'm no >AIC fan either, but they sure nailed it).
>Rod
>Paul Braun <cygnus_nospam@ctgonline.org> wrote:
>>Right now, they're into the Heart section of the show.
>>
>>The tribute is being done by two artists I don't like at all on their >>own - Alice In Chains and Gretchen Wilson. Yes, "Redneck Woman" >>Gretchen Wilson.
>>
>>They're doing "Barracuda".
>>
>>First off, the band is just plain kicking ass on this song, which >>kicks major ass in its own right. For right now, I'll suspend my >>dislike of them and give them kudos for this.
>>
>>And the thing that's blowing my freakin' mind is that Gretchen Wilson, >>minus the corny Nashville lyrics and countrified twang, is absolutely >>NAILING Ann's part. Nailing. As in just wailing. Where the hell is >>that voice coming from? Sadly, she'll go back to the over-safetyfied >>world of Nashville, strap on the twang, an' start sangin' crap agin'.
>>Ah'm tellin' ya, give the girl some rockin' tunes an' a real live >>jin-you-wine rock band, an' Ah mebbe jes' may become a fan.
>>
>>Glad Ah'm Tivo'ing this, so I can watch it again.....

>>
>>pab
>

---

Subject: Re: VH-1 Rock Honors... OK, I'm impressed
Posted by Sarah on Sat, 26 May 2007 08:39:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Ann Wilson is one of my all time favorites, and this Gretchen chick does her justice. If I could emulate anyone I wanted to, it would be Ann. Unfortunately, I've been a contralto since I was 11. Must've been all those Pall Malls . . .

S

"Paul Braun" <cygnus_nospam@ctgonline.org> wrote in message news:m6fc53t4u4070a0osna2ac3ln0pgea573d@4ax.com...

> Right now, they're into the Heart section of the show.

>

> The tribute is being done by two artists I don't like at all on their > own - Alice In Chains and Gretchen Wilson. Yes, "Redneck Woman" > Gretchen Wilson.

>

> They're doing "Barracuda".

>

> First off, the band is just plain kicking ass on this song, which > kicks major ass in its own right. For right now, I'll suspend my > dislike of them and give them kudos for this.

>

> And the thing that's blowing my freakin' mind is that Gretchen Wilson, > minus the corny Nashville lyrics and countrified twang, is absolutely > NAILING Ann's part. Nailing. As in just wailing. Where the hell is > that voice coming from? Sadly, she'll go back to the over-safetyfied > world of Nashville, strap on the twang, an' start sangin' crap agin'.
> Ah'm tellin' ya, give the girl some rockin' tunes an' a real live > jin-you-wine rock band, an' Ah mebbe jes' may become a fan.

>

> Glad Ah'm Tivo'ing this, so I can watch it again.....

>

> pab