OK, I'll start:

WHERE IS THE NEXT PARIS UPGRADE!!!!

I feel better now.

Riiight. What's that in the lower left corner of this page, then?

<http://www.intelligentdevices.com/>

"STAY TUNED
New products coming soon...
check back often"

With a nice little PARIS pic. :^)

You're right, but I'm afraid you don't get Festivus at all, Kim.
Therefore you and John will now wrestle!

I do get the feeling Edmund is having a giggle somewhere... ;o)

Methinks it is important in life to appreciate what you have. I might sound a little Buddhist here, but I would say "Only when you properly appreciate what you have will you properly appreciate having more". I'm sure somebody smart said that before me already, but really, Paris is still pretty cool just as it is. ;o)

So thanks to Edmund, and Steven if he's watching somewhere... plus all those other unnamed souls who contributed... the inventor of the transistor perhaps. Now I'm just being silly... or am I? ;o)

Cheers,
Kim.

Hey Kim,

Now you got it! It sounds like you're ready to help Festivus to end quickly. THANK YOU! ;^)

So happy Festivus, merry Christmas, happy Hanukkah, enlightened Bodhi Day, merry Kwanzaa, generous Boxing Day, energetic Sadeh, a joyful solstice/Dong zhi/Modranect/Saturnalia/Yule/Jul/Yalda/Karachun, and a wonderful whatever-winter-holiday-you-celebrate to all!

Cheers,

It's already tomorrow morning there? Next you'll claim there's no snow on the ground! Sheesh. ;^)

Thanks for another great year of running the PARIS group, Kim!

Cheers,
-Jamie

PS. There's hardly any snow here and it may not snow tomorrow (Christmas) either, but I'm OK with that. :^)

PPS. Merry happy, Deeji!

Back at'cha Jaimie. Have a great holiday man. No new snow here either. It's too cold to snow. It's down around 10 degrees here right now.
