Are they going to pay you for the time it took to argue with them about this.....let's say $60.00 per hour, just to be fair.....and if you had to drive anywhere and they refused to accept the machine for repairs at the time, are they going to pay your mileage (say.....$80.00 per mile) plus the additional driving time (also at $60.00 per hour)? Are you going to have to drive it back to Lansing or wherever now that they have agreed to do this? From what I've seen on this board so far, I'd say they probably owe you around $450.00 by now.

Now that's more like it! I'm glad to hear it. I hope all works out well.

Is an independent dealer doing the replacement?

Me too!!!....and when they waste my time like this, I send them a bill. They never pay it, but it gets their attention and I feel better for having made my curmudgeonly disgruntledness known to them.

Wow, with that reasoning there are companies that owe me tens of thousands of dollars! I wish I could cash in.
