Actually, I think I'm hearing a little bit HF rolloff when I do this.

Perhaps attenuating the signal after it leaves the output but before it travels down a long cable run (mine is around 120') may be doing this.....or maybe my old eard are just playing tricks on me.....

;oP

So could this $200 Compaq Presario actually run anything? Sure would be nice to buy a $200 SX computer to go with PARIS. Or could I put PARIS on this with a Magma?

Its an AMD sempron 3100+1.8ghz

Don't know much about the Sempron.

peace,
